More War Worry.
We May Share It.
A Polyglot Broadcast.
New Boy and Girl Idea.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

DISPUTES BETWEEN Russia and Japan concerning the Chinese railway have reached one of the usual stages, both sides saying that they have "every desire to avoid war," always a dangerous protestation.

Russia and Japan are said to have plans fully prepared for war, if it comes, and there is talk of concentration of troops by Japan.

If that war does come, it will provide another interesting, rather costly test of Soviet efficiency.

WESTERN EUROPE has war worries of its own. Hitler, to prove that he means what he says, causes Germany to withdraw, not only from the disarmament conference, but from the League of Nations.

This leaves him free to do as he pleases in any direction, without league control, and carry out his plan to scrap the Versailles treaty, rather than accept for Germany a permanent second place.

ALL THIS ought not to affect us, but, unfortunately, it does affect us, because our statesmen seem unable to get their little feet off the European fly paper, come home and attend to matters in the United States.

Germany's action, according to a special dispatch to the New York Times, "apparently came as a surprise to the State Department." Everything comes as a surprise to the State Department. In that same dispatch the Times assumes from Mr. Hull's remarks that this country is "now solidly with our former allies."

HOW solidly? Not again solidly to the tune of ten billion dollars, let us hope. We should give Europe time to finish repudiating the original debt before starting new ones.

There is one grain of comfort in the fact that war usually does not happen when everybody expects it.

PLUCKY LITTLE Belgium, "not meaning to be taken by surprise this time," is completing the fort along the frontier to cost a hundred and fifty million dollars. That gives work to men that need it, but the taking by surprise will come in another way, when airplanes fly over the forts, paying no attention to them.

DISPATCHES from Paris say:

"The French are calm."

They may be, having enough airplanes, explosive and gas bombs ready to destroy every important city east of the Rhine, and most of the human beings in those cities.

It is inconceivable that Hitler should invite actual war unless he has prepared to meet it in the air. Germany's admirable commercial air fleet could do nothing against thousands of special fighting planes in the French air fleet.

CHANCELLOR HITLER'S radio speech, giving Germany's reasons for leaving the League of Nations and the disarmament conference, was broadcast four times, in four languages, German, English, Spanish and Portuguese, covering all the world that listens to radio.

The speech, ably prepared, perfectly adapted to influence the German nation, included serious words intended to propitiate France:

"Similarly, we take cognizance, with hopeful emotion, of the assurance that the French government, under its present chief, does not intend to wound the feelings of, or humiliate, the German people."

And after further friendly reference to France:

"The German people are convinced that its martial honor in thousands of battles and skirmishes has remained clean and without blemish, exactly as we also see in the French soldier our old glory-bedecked opponent."

There was, however, no broadcasting of Hitler's talk in the French language. Perhaps Hitler remembered Bismarck's saying, after his rough talk to France, following the War of 1870, in which he spoke German, although he knew French well:

"When I discuss with men with whom I expect to come ultimately to an understanding, I speak their language; but when I see that it is useless to discuss with them, I speak my own."

Hitler used four languages, but not French.

The French might reply, also quoting Bismark:

"The decision will come only from God, from the God of battles, when he lets fall from his hand the iron dice of destiny."

Those dice were the cannon balls.

It will be a sad day for Europe if those dice start falling again.

CHANCELLOR HITLER has simplified politics as Mussolini has done. The aged Von Hindenburg dissolving the Reichstag, proclaims a new election that would fill the hearts of American bosses with envy. There is only one German party, the Hitler party. Only his candidates will be voted for, other parties having been suppressed, or gone into voluntary retirement.

RAIL HEADS MEET CITY ON SUBWAY

'Solutions' Offered For Downtown 'Loop' Problem

Negotiations toward a solution of the proposed Pittsburgh subway problem were opened today when two plans for co-operation of the Pittsburgh Railways Company with the city were laid before a committee of Council by Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company.

A new and speedier type of street car as a possible substitute for a subway was also explained by Phillips to the group, which included three members of the City Transit Commission.

SUBMIT PLAN

A motion to investigate the cost of subway operation from Duquesne way and Federal street, to Craig street and Fifth avenue concluded the conference.

Explaining that the railways company could not finance construction of a subway, Phillips offered the following plans for operation of a city-built underground system:

That the city pay the railways company a fair fee for the operation of the subway.

Or that the company use the subway, and return to the city any savings it was found to have made as against the cost of operating surface cars.

NEW CAR DISCUSSED

The financing of a subway, Phillips said, would be impossible for any private concern, unless it discounted its security 40 to 50 per cent.

He pointed out the Pittsburgh Railways Company was not meeting its fixed obligations over and above operating expenses and costs.

Discussing the new type of street car, Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the railways company, said experiments conducted in Brooklyn, N. Y., had produced one capable of doing 40 to 45 miles an hour on the level, and with acceleration faster than any auto.

The cars are to be made of aluminum or strainless steel to reduce weight, he said. Another feature is resilient wheels, having rubber between the rim and axle, said to greatly reduce noise of operation.

Although L. W. Monteverde, of the Transit Commission, pointed out conditions of traffic, not potential power, govern the speed of surface cars, Phillips issued an invitation to the conference to go to Brooklyn to ride in his new trolley.

CITY FUNDS TIED UP

A motion that the railways company appoint technicians to confer with the Transit Commission to determine the cost of construction and savings in operating costs of a subway from Duquesne way and Federal street to Fifth avenue and Craig was made by Monteverde. It passage ended the session.

Councilman P. J. McArdle, presiding at the session, pointed out that $6,000,000 of the city's credit had been tied up in the subway proposition since 1919.

Others present were Councilmen W. Y. English, George S. Oliver, Clifford B. Connelley and Frank L. Duggan, and George S. Davison, chairman, and Henry Tranter, of the Transit Commission.

Poisoned

MRS. MARGARET CRAFT

WIFE, 22, DIES BY POISON

Her nerves upset, 22-year-old Mrs. Margaret Craft, member of a prominent Tarentum family, dropped 13 poisonous tablets into a glass of water, the Coroner's office reported.

Today she was dead. She lived for a week after drinking the poisoned water.

Mrs. Craft, the wife of W. B. Craft, died in the home of her parents in Ninth avenue. Her father, J. P. Crawford, is cashier of the People's National Bank of Tarentum.

A friend and spokesman of the Crawford family, A. D. Endsley, superintendent of the Tarentum schools, said today that Mrs. Craft had returned to her parents' home at 7 p. m. Sunday, October 8, after having been missing 24 hours. He said she seemed excited and explained she had been "riding around." She left her parents' home and two hours later drank the poison in her own home, Prof. Endsley said.

The Coroner's report describes the death as suicide and states that she admitted the action to her physician, but gave no reason.

Private funeral services will be held from the home of her parents at 8 p. m. Tuesday. Burial, private, will be in Kittanning Wednesday.

Professor at Pitt Quits Liberal Group

Dr. B. J. Hovde, professor of history at the University of Pittsburgh, has resigned as president of the League for Social Justice, it was announced today. He was succeeded by A. L. Wills, superintendent of the Juvenile Detention Home.

Hovde gave as his reason the "pressure of an increased teaching load." Ralph E. Turner, Pitt professor of history, resigned as chairman of the Pennsylvania Security League, also a liberal group, during the summer.

COMMERCIAL COAL MINES RESUME

Captives Remain Idle; Fayette Area Union Ousts President

The coal industry of Western Pennsylvania, with the exception of captive mines, resumed operations generally today, after a month of intermittent shutdowns.

Fayette County mines remained closed, with seven exceptions, and a majority of captive mines in adjoining counties remained down.

William Hynes, international organizer for the United Mine Workers of America, supplanted William Feeney as provisional president of district No. 4, which includes the Fayette area. Hynes, fiery and popular, is expected to meet with general approval, and faces the task of bringing the insurgents into peaceful solidarity.

PICKETS OPERATE

Roving bands of pickets still roamed, but in a lessened degree, Gov. Pinchot's instructions that it halt, issued last week, were generally obeyed. State police dispersed the bands that appeared at several mines—one in Allegheny County.

Virtually all commercial mines with United Mine Union contracts reopened, and the Harwick mine of the Duquesne Light Company, a captive mine with a union agreement, reopened.

No date has been set for resumption of the peace negotiations between Thomas Moses, spokesman for the captive mine operators, and Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers.

Mines fields that resumed included:

The Allegheny-Washington County pits south of Pittsburgh.

The Youghiogheny Valley district.

SINIA, Rumania, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—King Carol today celebrated his fortieth birthday quietly at Pelesh Castle with other members of the royal family with whom he was recently reunited.

The occasion was signalized by a visit of 32 Polish military airplanes which dropped thousands of roses on the castle grounds.

Mail Chute Afire In Downtown Bldg.

Fire in a mail box on the first floor of the Law and Finance Building, 427 Fourth avenue, today slightly damaged some letters before a postoffice employe got the box open. An elevator dispatcher had noticed smoke. It is believed some person dropped a cigaret butt in the mail chute.

WEIR FACES NRA TEST ON STRIKE

Steel Firm Leader Challenges U. S. On Arbitration

By JOHN P. COWAN
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The authority of the NRA to arbitrate strikes was the momentous issue involved today as E. T. Weir, head of the Weirton Steel Company, was to appear before the National Labor Board.

Arriving early today, Weir said he planned to "thoroughly enlighten" the board by testimony in amplification of his telegraphed messages to the board last week.

Weir challenges the right of the board to require mediation of the strike of 10,000 employes of the company in Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O.

The steel head informed Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the Labor Board, that he was complying with the summons to appear this afternoon only out of a desire to co-operate with the President's recovery program. He would not arbitrate the strike, he declared.

STRIKERS TO BE HEARD

Appearing with Weir, it is expected, will be a battery of lawyers. Representatives of the strikers also will be heard.

Following the hearing the board is expected to hand down a ruling covering not only the Weirton strike, but coal strikes in Western Kentucky. In the latter case the operators ignored summons to appear personally before the board.

Senator Wagner has stated that in his opinion the board is

BEAUTY SHOP CASE HOLDS 12

Eight women and four men, described as employes of the National Beauty Corporation in downtown Fourth avenue, were arrested today on warrants issued by Alderman George A. Young.

They were charged with conspiracy to cheat and defraud. The accusations were said to be based on prices charged for permanent waves.

The male prisoners were listed as Wilbur Freeman, 402 Collins avenue; Joe Devine, 402 Collins avenue; Frank DeGillis, 222 Meyran avenue; J. R. Goodwin, Collins avenue.

The Better Business Bureau reported an investigation of solicitation by beauty parlor representatives and that 200 complaints were received.

The girls were listed by police under the names of Mary Schmidt, Mary VanKuren, Louise Sunday, Mae Scheelie, Buena Dixon, Nellie Davidson, Anna Wilson and Carrie Mitchell.

They told Capt. John Schnurr they believed they were working on a legitimate business proposition. They were to receive a commission for each certificate they sold, they stated.

'First Lady' Delays Decision on Liquor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today let it be known that so far as serving liquors in the White House is concerned, she will cross the bridge when she comes to it. Asked if she would serve wine at diplomatic receptions, she replied:

"There will be no statement until repeal has come, and until it is an accomplished fact in the District of Columbia. Then there will be a statement just as there was on beer."

Work, Bridge Star, Gains in Hospital

READING, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Improvement is reported in the condition of Milton C. Work, 69, bridge expert and lecturer, stricken ill during play in the Eastern Pennsylvania bridge tournament.

Seized with abdominal pains Saturday, just before the night session of the tourney was resumed, he was taken to a hospital.

W. R. Hearst's Views On Liquor Control

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 15.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

THERE WILL not be a universal plan of liquor control adopted by all the states. In fact, there are such varying conditions in the states that there will be almost an equal number of different controls.

We must realize this, now that the liquor problem has been taken entirely from the hands of the federal government and transferred to the state governments.

However, there are certain conditions and sentiments which are almost universal.

First, practically every state will agree on the necessity of abolishing the saloon, or rather, preventing the return of the saloon.

It is very easy to abolish the saloon.

The saloon is an open, legalized institution, which can be abolished by merely denying the legal recognition.

If the so-called saloon continues after it has been denied legal recognition, it continues in secret and becomes no longer a saloon, but a speakeasy.

THE GOVERNMENT has not accomplished anything beneficial by transforming a saloon into a speakeasy, because the speakeasy has all the disadvantages of the saloon, plus the disadvantages incident to bootlegging, racketeering, secret and unrestrained drinking, police corruption and the many other well-known evils of prohibition.

It is therefore not only just as important to eliminate the speakeasy as it is to eliminate the saloon—it is MORE IMPORTANT.

We must try therefore to devise a plan which will eliminate the speakeasies along with the saloons, and the only way to do this is to make the sumptuary legislations sufficiently liberal to result in secret drinking places becoming undesired and consequently unpatronized and unprofitable.

Respectable institutions, like established and recognized hotels and restaurants, should be allowed to fill the ordinary drinking requirements of the public in an open and regular and reputable manner.

Prohibition should have taught everybody a few simple fundamentals.

First, that drinking cannot be abolished by law.

Second, that the attempt to abolish it drives the drinking from open places, where it can be reasonably regulated by law, into hidden places, where it cannot be reached by law; and, third, that the drinking in hidden places results in all kinds of accompanying crime, such as bootlegging, racketeering, blackmailing, gang murder and incidental corruption of the law enforcement machinery.

An important thing to realize is that what is true of prohibition IS TRUE TO A LARGE DEGREE OF ANY KIND OF EXCESSIVE RESTRICTION in the regulation of the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

THE MORE you put resented restrictions upon the consumption of alcoholic beverages in respectable places like hotels and restaurants, the more you drive the people who resent those restrictions into the patronage and encouragement and development of various kinds of speakeasies and secret drinking places, with all the well-known evils that secret and illegal drinking places involve.

Therefore the sane solution of the situation seems to lie in, first, abolishing the saloon and any kind of disreputable public drinking place, and, second, in liberal laws and regulations for the consumption of alcoholic beverages in reputable hotels and restaurants, thus eliminating the speakeasies by eliminating the demand for the speakeasy.

To make sure that such liberal limitations as there are may be honestly and intelligently administered, the state should, of course, be responsible for the distribution of all alcoholic beverages and the careful selection of those hotels and restaurants which are privileged to dispense it.

Apart from such public drinking places there is the matter of home consumption and that should be handled entirely by the state in reasonably limited amount to licensed individuals. Moreover, the license to the private person, just as the license

REASONS FOR BOLT HELD 'INVALID'

U. S. Leads in Efforts To Maintain Hope Of Agreements

Developments in the disarmament crisis:

1—The world arms conference at Geneva adjourned until October 26.

GENEVA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The world disarmament conference today adjourned to October 26.

This was in keeping with the recommendation of the steering committee, which suggested a suspension of formal sessions until that date, with a meeting of its own body the day before.

Before adjournment was taken, Arthur Henderson, of Great Britain, president of the conference, read a reply of the conference to Germany, in which he held that Germany's reasons for bolting were not "valid."

NEURATH ASKS FREE GERMANY

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Konstantin von Neurath, the German Foreign Minister, summarized "the cardinal question" of current politics today by asking, "Shall the division of nations into victors and vanquished be eternalized?"

Baron von Neurath received the entire foreign press and discussed Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations and the Disarmament Conference. He asserted:

"The cardinal question around which the entire politics of the present day turns, and concerning which the unequivocal answer must be given is:

"Shall the division of nations into victors and vanquished be eternalized or is, at last, the principle to receive recognition that all state are members with equal rights of the community of nations?

DECISIVE FACTOR

"The recognition and realization of this principle is decisive for every form of international co-operation.

"All statesmen for years have theoretically proclaimed this as a self-evident truth, but they could not bring themselves to

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Eustis L. Thompson, Christian minister of Dallas, Tex., and Shreveport, awaiting trial on federal charge of sending obscene matter through the mails, was found dead today in his automobile near here.

A message received by a brother said the minister had evidently been dead for three or four days. It gave no further details.

Amateurs Clutter Up Police Radio; Warned

For four hours last night two amateur radio broadcasters tied up radio communications of the Pittsburgh police, and today Lieut. Daniel D. McGreevy issued a warning to Francis Barthold, 20, of 235 Ames street, North Side, and Ray Harlow, of Martsolf street, West View.

Between 9 p. m. and 1 a. m. last night police radio cars were unable to get messages because of a local station from which a medley of sound was being poured forth.

Lieut. McGreevy said Barthold told him he put on the program with Harlow's help over licensed station W8HFY at his home on a frequency of 1805 kilocycles. Barthold was told to get his set straightened out so it would not overlap with the police wave length of 1712 kilocycles.

Poland and Turkey supported the Soviet protest, but Henderson swept them all aside with the remark that all delegates would know what was going on.

Mr. Henderson then declared as carried both approval for the reply to Germany and the recommendation for adjournment to the twenty-sixth.

Salvador de Madariaga, of Spain, asked what the conference expected to do when it resumed.

Henderson retorted:

"You know as much about it as I do, but I tell you one thing: I expected to finish the disarmament work by Christmas, but now I expect to be here until the anniversary of the opening of the conference next February."

Mr. Henderson added that during the recess the delegations would consult their governments.

FIGHT WAGED

Meanwhile, despite Germany's withdrawal from the conference, efforts were made by the "Big Three"—the United States, Britain and France—to keep alive the hope of eventual disarmament agreements.

A message from Prime Minister Ramsay McDonald, of Great Britain, urged the "vital necessity" for the conference to arrive at a successful and speedy conclusion.

The British minister said that the conference was threatened with failure because the "confidence of Europe in a continuing peace has been seriously shaken."

Whoever refuses to contribute to the re-establishment of that confidence, he said, "must bear a heavy responsibility in the eyes of the whole world."

From Paris came vigorous French support for the stand of Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, against a permanent rupture of the conference. The completion of a disarmament convention along the lines already drawn, despite the German withdrawal from the conference and the League of Nations, was viewed by the French as the best way out of a "serious situation."

DAVIS EFFORTS

It was Ambassador Davis who perhaps loomed largest in the long discussions which resulted in the decision to move for a temporary recess instead of permanent adjournment.

The Henderson reply to Germany on its reasons for withdrawal was addressed to Baron von Neurath, foreign minister. It follows:

"I communicated to the general commission Your Excellency's telegram of the 14th announcing the decision of the German government to discontinue participation in the work of the conference for the reduction and limitation of armaments, and indicating the reasons for that decision.

"This program, to be completed within a limited period, provided for the realization progressively, in accordance with the resolutions of the conference in which Germany herself concurred, of the reductions of armaments comparable to those contemplated in the draft convention submitted to the general commission.

"This program was provided also with corresponding measures of security for the realization of the rights which the German government have always placed in the forefront of their demands.

"I regret, therefore, that this grave decision should have been taken by your government for reasons which I am unable to accept as valid."

Receiving the international peace associations, a majority Americans, Henderson said:

"My message is that the struggle for disarmament must go on and that the covenant of the League of Nations shall not be treated as a scrap of paper. We will not break faith with the dead who fell that there should be no more war."

With eloquent gestures, and in impassioned tone, Henderson continued:

"Nail your flag to the mast of the league.

"Make the will to peace stronger than the will to war.

"Every delay or defeat must call forth fresh reserves of stubborn and relentless energy. The flower of one generation was slain in the great war and it is our duty to give the world peace in our time."

Making what was deemed an allusion to Germany, he continued:

"We must not hesitate to incur risks and make whatever sacrifice may be necessary to insure the final triumph of the reign of law over international anarchy that breeds war."

Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan, of Washington, D. C., representing the American Council on Disarmament, read to the assemblage cables selected from 50 received in the course of the night from numerous mass meetings in the United States urging continuation of disarmament efforts.

SOVIET WARNS JAPAN OF WAR

International News Service.

PEIPING, Oct. 16.—Bespeaking possibility of open warfare between Russia and Japan the spokesman of the Soviet embassy today threatened Japan with "many surprises in the event of hostilities."

The spokesman's threat, presumably made with the knowledge and approval of Moscow, was a sensational development in the diplomatic tug-of-war between the two nations in the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute, which Japan has sought to minimize.

The spokesman made his statement in commenting on a Chinese report that three Russian airplanes from Mongolia reconnoitered Jehol City, capital of the province of the same name recently conquered by Japanese troops, for three hours last Thursday.

According to the Chinese dispatch, the planes were finally driven off by Japanese anti-aircraft guns and scurried north. Said the spokesman:

"There are many surprises in store for Japan in the event of Russo-Japanese hostilities, especially in the air, as well as in the modernized land and sea defenses at Vladivostok."

U. S. NAZI QUIZ PROMISED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Charges that the German government is fomenting the Nazi movement in the United States were to be laid before Secretary of State Hull today by Representative Dickstein (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the House Immigration Committee.

Dickstein planned specifically to challenge the denial made to the State Department by Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador to this country.

Dickstein said:

"The German Ambassador knows what is going on in this country. The denial he made about 300 consular agents being active here was just a smokescreen."

Dickstein planned to hold an informal meeting of the House Immigration Committee and name a sub-committee to begin immediately an investigation of Nazi propaganda. He said:

"Unfortunately, we do not have the right of subpena, but we can get much information."

BORAH FEARS NEW WAR

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, said yesterday, "We are facing the possibility of another war," and, commenting on Germany's withdrawal from the arms conference and the League of Nations, the situation "can be charged to no single nation."

The former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said:

He appealed to the "victor nations" of the World War to "carry out the pledge made in the Versailles Treaty and disarm" in an address at a public meeting called to indorse efforts of the Geneva conference. He said:

"While the people everywhere are assembled in the cause of disarmament and peace, governments seem to be drifting toward war. While those who must do the fighting and dying if war comes are petitioning for peace, for the lifting of the burden of armaments, those who will not shed one drop of their own ignoble blood or imperil one hair of their recreant heads are apparently leading on toward another armed conflict."

Beery in Air Again Following Crack-Up

Beery, flying to the West Coast, encountered a 60-mile-an-hour wind when he attempted to land at Santa Fe. The wind turned his plane around and broke the tip of one wing. Beery was uninjured.

JAP EX-ENVOY TO LEAGUE DIES

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Inazo Nitobe, Japan's last League of Nations representative, died in a hospital here last night. He was 71 years old.

Dr. Nitobe was one of Japan's foremost public men. A crown member of the House of Peers, he was perhaps best known as an interpreter of Japan to the western world.

German Assailants Of American Seized

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—United States Ambassador William E. Dodd was informed officially today that the Storm Troopers accused of attacking Roland Velz, an American citizen, were under arrest and en route to Berlin for investigation of the charges against them.

This notification closely followed a formal visit by Dodd to Foreign Minister von Neurath to protest against the Velz incident and to point out that other cases of Nazi beatings of Americans had not been settled.

LONDON HOLDS HOPE; PARIS GRAVE

Britain Sees Door Left Open to Negotiations

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Although quitting the disarmament conference and the League of Nations, Germany has left the door open to future negotiations.

This was the substance of official British opinion today regarding Saturday's developments in Berlin and Geneva, based on a thorough week-end study of all German proclamations and speeches and confidential reports from British diplomats.

Although British circles make no effort to minimize the gravity of the situation, it is felt Germany has not completely closed the door to continued disarmament efforts.

The scheme to adjourn the disarmament conference for a week is welcomed as giving the governments of the world a breathing space in which to take stock of the situation.

It will also permit extensive underground diplomatic representations to Germany, particularly from Rome and London, in the hope of effecting some change of tactics in the Reich.

PARIS FEARS AROUSED

PARIS, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A foreign office official said today that war fears have been re-aroused by Saturday's speech of Chancellor Hitler of Germany but that "we are calm." He said:

"The situation is grave, but France is keeping cool."

He said Hitler's acts had resurrected the treaty of Versailles.

Premier Daladier kept silent. He sat much of the day in the ministry of war consulting political and military chiefs and trying to map France's course.

In official circles it was said the Daladier cabinet had gained tremendous strength in the present situation and all parliamentary talk among deputies is of a national unity to face "an unmasked Germany."

RUSSIA SEES WAR PERIL

MOSCOW, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Serious preparations for war are inevitable as a result of Germany's defection from Geneva, Soviet newspapers declared today.

Stating the treaty of Versailles was faced with the worst crisis in its history, official and semi-official publications declared that the diarmament conference was hopelessly wrecked, the four-power pact doomed and the League of Nations proved a failure.

Germany's withdrawal, it was said, will sharpen the imperialistic struggle. In addition to isolating the Reich politically, the withdrawal shows her "lamentable internal political and economic situation."

Japan's Government Denies German Pact

TOKIO, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Japanese government officials today discussed Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations and disarmament conference. Agreeing that because of it Japan need take no special steps.

All rumors, including those of a sympathetic rapprochement between Japan and Germany, were groundless, according to an official spokesman.

drawing the necessary and practical consequences from it.

"Last Saturday it became clear at Geneva that the German people are denied equality in one of the questions supremely affecting its very existence, namely, national security."

Meanwhile, national indorsement of Chancellor Hitler's momentous new policies found expression throughout Germany today.

Crowds in Munich, Berlin and Honnef cheered the chancellor's action in withdrawing Germany from the League of Nations and the disarmament conference.

With a suddenness almost as startling as this action came the President's dissolution of the Reichstag, and reliable indications that Hitler intends to abolish state lines and state parliaments within Germany, further unifying the Nazi regime.

VIENNA JOYOUS

The unfurling of a huge swastika banner at the Institute of Technology was the signal for a city-wide and country-wide demonstration at the universities. Smoke bombs were exploded while the students shouted, "Heil Hitler" and sang Nazi songs.

Police lorries were rushed to the university, the technology institute and also the anatomical institute. The use of clubs proving ineffective, the officers resorted to their sabers before quiet was restored.

The outbursts of the students was particularly interesting in view of the attitude encountered in official quarters and political circles where many, although pointing out Austria is more or less bound to the friendly policy of the League of Nations, nevertheless could not suppress a private feeling of exultation.

After all, it was pointed out in these quarters, Germany undeniably had bespoken the emotions of a large section of the population of all the defeated nations, including Austria.

U. S. STANDING ON SIDELINES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The United States, while expressing formally a determination that disarmament efforts must not be allowed to fail, has decided upon a temporary attitude of watchful waiting toward efforts to this end at Geneva.

It was made clear today at the State Department that, unless unforseen developments arise, this country will await the results of conferences during the next three or four days between European leaders before taking further action.

On behalf of President Roosevelt, it was said that the nations should "redouble their efforts to overcome the obstacles which are still blocking their path" toward disarmament, a situation made more acute by Germany's withdrawal from the arms parley and the League of Nations.

A communication containing these words was addressed to Lord Robert Cecil, of England, in connection with a peace mass meeting in Geneva yesterday. It was transmitted by Secretary Hull through Norman H. Davis, America's Ambassador-at-Large.

Honeymoon Upset

JEAN HARLOW

QUICK RECOVERY SEEN FOR JEAN

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Jean Harlow, platinum blonde actress of the screen, who underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at the Good Samaritan Hospital Sunday, was reported by her physician to be resting easily and showing signs of quick recovery.

The physician, Dr. Sydney R. Burnap, said that barring complications, Miss Harlow will be able to leave the hospital within two weeks.

The unexpected attack of appendicitis upset Miss Harlow's plans for a honeymoon trip to Honolulu with Harold G. Rosson, film cameraman whom she married a few weeks ago in Yuma, Ariz.

SLAYING SPURS CUBAN STRIFE

HAVANA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Feeling between certain groups within the army and the student directors was running high today as a result of the killing of a soldier, 28-year-old Joaquin Camejo.

He was shot, police said, by Homero Valdes, a student.

Valdes was arrested, along with his companions, Jose Tiara, chauffeur, and Ishmael Rodriguez and Rafael Pozada, students.

A relative of the slain man said it was a revenge killing, explaining that Joaquin slew Valdes' brother last year.

It was reported that several soldiers were awaiting an opportunity to avenge Camejo's death, while a number of students insisted Valdes' action was justified because of the alleged activities of Camejo during the regime of the deposed President, Gerardo Machado.

Meantime, Valdes and his companions were held for safekeeping.

BILLION BANK FUND RUSHED BY ROOSEVELT

Roosevelt Summons Parley to Free Frozen Assets

WASHINGTON Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Further steps in the administration's program for releasing one billion dollars of frozen assets of closed banks were gone over today by President Roosevelt at a conference with J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency.

O'Connor, called to the White House by the Chief Executive, was one of those named by the President last night to direct a new deposit liquidation board to make loans on the assets of banks closed since January 1.

Government loans to the banks will be administered by the board, headed by C. B. Merriam, a director of the Reconstruction Corporation. The board will be a special division of the R. F. C.

MAKE KNOWN DETAILS

Details of the new proposal were not made public immediately. A press conference was arranged for late in the day, however, by Merriam to explain the set-up to newspapermen.

One of the problems, it was pointed out, in responsible circles, will be to decide what constitutes a closed bank. Officials of many institutions now in the hands of conservators, have attempted to prevent their institutions from being liquidated, claiming that with a little time they would be able to reopen.

The President said in his announcement:

"The object of establishing this deposit liquidation division and trying to stimulate the distribution of frozen bank assets, is: first, to place money in the hands of depositors with the least possible delay, and second, to bring about more orderly liquidation of the assets of closed banks; this will prevent dumping of assets at sacrifice prices."

Federal Liquidation Plan Seen as Aid to Banks Here

Announcement of the creation of a federal Deposit Liquidation Board to lend approximately $1,000,000,000 on frozen bank assets is regarded as an action which will be of substantial help in this district, according to bank officials.

Whether any of the money will be used in the aid of restricted banks, now in the hands of conservators, was not disclosed, but it seemed more likely that the funds would be used in hastening the closing of affairs of banks which have been definitely turned over to receivers for liquidation.

Many of the restricted banks are busy working out their own problems. The head of one depositors' committee declared that he expects his bank to be open and running before the new federal plan is in operation.

Some of the banks now under restrictions will be unable to reorganize and will undoubtedly get a receiver, under whom they will get the benefits of the federal loans.

CAPITAL RAISED FOR NEW BANK

More than two-thirds of the new capital needed from the community for the reorganization of the First National Bank of McKees Rocks has been subscribed, according to T. W. Friend, conservator.

A new bank is to be formed with capital of $150,000 and surplus of $30,000. One-half of the capital and all the surplus is to be subscribed locally and the remainder is to be taken up in the form of preferred stock by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The reorganization plan would make possible freeing 40 per cent of deposits immediately and as much of the remainder later as can be realized from sale of other assets of the old bank. The new bank is to be known as the First National Bank at McKees Rocks.

First National Bank Of Sharon Reopens

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 16.—The First National Bank re-opened today on an unrestricted basis. More than 17,000 depositors, with deposits of $4,000,000, were at liberty to withdraw 70 per cent of their money, but almost every account was left in the bank.

Hindenburg May Retire As German President

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—When the German nation marches to the polls November 12 to give Chancellor Adolf Hitler unanimous indorsement, it may unwittingly put an end to the German presidency.

There are indications that President von Hindenburg, after the nation has overwhelmingly indorsed Hitler and his policies may decide that the moment has come when he can lay aside the cares of office and retire to his home at Neudeck—thus making Hitler Germany's supreme ruler in name as well as in fact.

It is an open secret, though the press says nothing about it, that the question of von Hindenburg's retirement has been under consideration both by himself and the Hitler cabinet.

Devotion to duty kept the 86-year-old chief of state from resigning so long as the Nazi regime was not completely intrenched.

There is also little doubt that Hindenburg, from a sense of loyalty to his former sovereign, would be happiest if he could resign in favor of Wilhelm II.

In this connection, the recent visit of Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm to Neudeck was much commented upon in political circles.

However, among Nazi storm troopers, who are the backbone of the Hitler regime, there is little enthusiasm for a monarchy.

Grid Hero Flees Home To Escape Dentist

International News Service.

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 16.—Johnny Chavar, 190-pound hero of the Collingswood High School football team, started a run last Friday—and today was still going.

His goal—to escape the dentist. Johnny's mother was driving her six-feet-one son to the dentist's office in the family car. Despite a throbbing toothache, Johnny protested.

To all protests his mother turned a deaf ear. The tooth was going to be fixed, she was determined.

She got as far as Broadway and Federal streets, Camden. There her son, the hero of a score of sports battles, gave a shriek of terror and leaped from the car.

Police still are looking for him.

WIFE PREPARED TO FURNISH RANSOM

Family Asks Police To Halt Search For Abductors

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Department of Justice agents today sought the arrests of eight men named as suspects in the kidnaping of William Walton Hall, 31, wealthy law student and part owner of the Sea Dog Inn, a gay river-mouth resort.

The eight suspects are Freeport (Ill.) acquaintances of the missing man, according to Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the bureau of investigation. Purvis kept their identities secret while federal agents checked their recent movements.

Mrs. Julia Hall, wife of the supposed kidnap victim, announced, through her attorney, that $5,000 in ransom money is in readiness awaiting further instructions. Members of the family requested that police activity cease to insure Hall's return.

Hall is heir to a portion of a $250,000 estate, most of which is said to be in real estate. Federal agents were dubious that the missing man's wealth was sufficient to attract kidnapers.

Mrs. Hall, daughter of a wealthy Freeport lumberman, said she had received two letters since her husband disappeared following a class Friday night at the Kent College of Law. Hall had received two letters, one supposedly demanding $5,000, before he vanished.

Friends of the missing man told police he had been acting strangely for two weeks. They said he had entered the Sea Dog Inn and tore down a sketch of himself that was hanging on the wall, giving no reason for his act.

ROOMER SOUGHT IN SLAYING OF RICH WIDOW

Mutilated Body Found In Sack Afloat in San Diego Bay

International News Service.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 16.—Search was under way today for Thomas M. Jones, 41, said by police to be an ex-convict from Ohio State Prison, following the ghastly murder of Mrs. Laura Ellen Straw, 74, eccentric and wealthy widow, formerly of Ohio.

Strangled and hacked, Mrs. Straw's mutilated body, sewed in a seaman's duffle bag, was found floating in San Diego Bay. She had been lashed in a triplex shroud.

Jones was a roomer at Mrs. Straw's small cottage.

In Jones' room police found documents and letters had been hastily pulled from dresser drawers, apparently for packing, and then abandoned. Wet rags had been used to wipe up bloodstains.

The house also had been ransacked.

Mrs. Straw had been married three times and came here with a daughter, Mrs. Abbie Becker, from Ohio 16 years ago.

PUGILIST SAYS HE'LL MARRY ASTOR WIDOW

Charges 'Frameup' to Keep Him From Ill Fiancee

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Enzo Fiermonte, Italian boxer, returned today from Bermuda, where he was refused permission to land last Friday, and said he would marry Mrs. Madeline Dick, widow of John Jacob Astor.

The boxer said he would leave in two weeks for Paris and that the marriage would take place there as soon as Mrs. Dick is discharged from a Bermuda hospital, where she is recovering from an injury suffered in a fall.

Fiermonte said he would give up boxing and become a broker.

Fiermonte was indignant over the refusal of Bermuda authorities to permit him to land and said he intended to retain "one of the best lawyers in New York" to find out who was responsible and make a formal complaint through the Italian consulate. He said:

"If it costs me my last penny, I'll find out who is responsible."

The boxer attributed the order that kept him aboard the ship while fellow passengers went ashore to a telephone call from New York. He said he was in St. John, N. B., preparing to sail for Europe when news of Mrs. Dick's injury reached him and he canceled his plans and hurried to Bermuda, only to be kept aboard the ship.

FIVE LINDY CASE 'JAILERS' FINED

International News Service.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 16.—Five of the eight men found guilty last February on charges of kidnaping Garret Schenck, New Jersey fish peddler, as a suspect in the Lindbergh kidnaping and murder, today were sentenced in Criminal Court here.

Frank Shugarts, Avery Commors and Reuben Rakestraw, all of DuBois, who also were convicted of the conspiracy and kidnaping, did not appear for sentencing. They are out on bond.

New trial motions for all of the defendants were denied.

Schenck was kidnaped in New Jersey and taken to a hideout in Clearfield County where he was held prisoner for several days as a suspect in the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

HUEY HECKLED, HURLS DEFI

DONALDSVILLE, La., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Senator Huey Long, campaigning for seven new tax measures, is ready to "man-to-man" it with any heckler who cares to make an issue of "that Long Island affair."

While speaking here yesterday, the Senator was interrupted by a voice which called out from the grandstand of the South Louisiana State Fair:

"What about that Long Island affair?"

The reference was to fisticuffs that marked an evening a few weeks ago when Senator Long was a guest at a Long Island, New York, club.

The Senator shouted back at the heckler:

"Come down here and I'll man-to-man it with you. I won't have five or six men jump on you like they did on me and then run off. Come down here and I'll Long Island you."

"Go on down, Sam."

But Sam had other ideas, and Senator Long went back to his taxes.

Claire Asks Delay In Balm Battle

EINSTEIN MUM, REACHES U. S.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Albert Einstein came back to America yesterday with a studied silence and a keen interest in a soft boiled egg.

The liner Westernland, bearing the professor from England to New York, stopped briefly in the harbor. Most of the passengers came ashore for a stroll, but Dr. Einstein stayed on the ship.

The scientist was indisposed, an attendant explained. He has not been feeling well for a week. Mrs. Einstein left her husband in their cabin and joined Dr. Walther Mayer, of Vienna, a co-worker of Dr. Einstein, in the dining salon. She was gone only a few minutes, however, when the scientist decided to go to the salon himself.

With an emphatic, negative shake of the head, Dr. Einstein refused to answer questions, and began exploration of an egg.

The Einsteins are proceeding to Princeton, N. J., where the scientist will pursue his research work.

Amid blare of trumpets, shouts of "Hallelujah!" and the chanting of the choir, the widow who won an acquittal in one of Massachusetts' most famous murder trials joined the penitents who flocked to the famous evangelist at the afternoon meeting of the revival in the Boston Arena.

Jessie said:

"I have heard the call, and I am responding to it. Sister McPherson told me the message would come to me—the message which would lead me back to grace and the church."

Jessie's trip along the sawdust trail to salvation provided the most dramatic moment of Aimee's revival which opened Friday night. Thousands of Bostonians have flocked to the meeting to catch a glimpse of the "smiling widow of Peabody." She has stolen the spotlight from the blonde evangelist.

Shouts of "Hallelujah" and "Bless you, Sister Jessie," rang out from Aimee's fervent followers as Jessie rose from her seat on the platform where she had been singing with the choir. Necks craned to watch the comely widow march down the "salvation lane."

Aimee's greeting as she grasped the outstretched hands of Mrs. Costello was:

"God bless you, Sister Jessie."

Pastor's Flock Would Forgive Straying Mates

CHICAGO, Oct. 16. — (AP.) — Should a husband or a wife who strays from the straight and narrow path be forgiven by his or her spouse?

This question was answered affirmatively by a majority of 300 couples married by the Rev. Clinton C. Cox, pastor of the Drexel Presbyterian Church. There wasn't an emphatic "no" in any of the replies.

A majority of the couples likewise said "yes" to the question:

"Can a man or woman come back after a transgression?"

Twenty-one questions were asked of the couples by Mr. Cox, who sends out his questionnaries annually, using the answers as the basis for a service conducted for married persons.

A majority replied that economic conditions of the past few years had tended to strenghten the marriage bonds.

The way some of them put it was:

CALL BROKERS' LISTS IN CHECK ON U. S. TAXES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Bureau of Internal Revenue today announced plans for a gigantic checkup of brokerage accounts to determine the validity of claims for losses in the last few years.

Forms have been printed upon which brokers will be required to "render correct returns showing the names of customers for whom such person has transacted any business, with such details as to profits, losses or other information as will enable the commissioner (of Internal Revenue) to determine whether all income tax due on profits or gains of such customers has been paid."

"The undertaking is one of considerable magnitude and one which will necessitate much additional work on the part of the bureau forces. The bureau, however, feels that in no other manner can it conform to the requirements of the tax law which directs the commissioner to conduct examinations into the records of the tax payers to determine whether or not tax schedules as filed are correct."

U. S. SOFTENS ON RUM VIOLATORS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Dismissal of liquor conspiracy charges against Heber Nations, former Missouri state labor commissioner, was ordered by Attorney General Cummings after he received a recommendation that this be done from L. H. Breuer, district attorney at St. Louis.

While Justice Department officials said that no general policy of leniency toward prohibition violators had been laid down, they indicated that at least a softened attitude was being adopted.

All cases, they said, must be examined on their individual merits rather than be ruled by a general policy. Defendants with gangster and racketeer connections, it was indicated, would be prosecuted as vigorously as ever.

influence on sex. The learned professor thinks the birth of boy babies in greater numbers than girl babies in recent years may be due to mothers dieting to keep thin, also partly to the fact that hard times have made food scarce.

Let young women remember, however, that the mothers of Abraham Lincoln, Charlemange, George Washington and Edison did not starve themselves.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr's., recommendations for liquor control after prohibition goes, prepared for him by experts, include reasonably low taxes on liquor, saying truly, that a big income for the government is not the only thing to consider.

More important is the fact taxes, too high, will mean keeping the bootleg industry alive, and continuing the financing of organized crime.

The Rockefeller report urges taxes sufficiently reasonable to cause "the illicit manufacturer and the bootlegger to lose their market."

"MACHINE GUN" KELLY, in an armored car, in the Kansas City yards, on his way to life imprisonment in Leavenworth, looked from the barred window, and was asked by a policeman:

"How's things?"

Kelly replied:

"I'm going to break out as soon as I get to Leavenworth."

When he reached Leavenworth prison, with its high walls, Kelly said to the guard:

"Don't worry about me, I'll be out of here before Christmas."

"What Christmas?"

Kelly, "glad to get rid of the hardware," handcuffs and leg irons, was put in solitary confinement. From Leavenworth, he will go to Alcatraz, Uncle Sam's new "Devil's Island." Few have escaped from there.

THE PURSUIT of desperate criminals is no safe occupation. Joseph B. Keenan, special assistant of the United States Attorney General, whose work sent "Machine Gun" Kelly and his partners to jail for life, is called frequently on the telephone. One caller said:

Later, the same evening, a different voice said:

"If we don't meet you in Atlantic City, we'll attend to you in Washington."

Other threats come through the mail.

Those who telephone and write might be warned by the fate of Kelly. Assistant Attorney General Keenan is himself rather dangerous, with the additional advantage of being intelligent. In reply to all threats, he remarks:

"We shall have our own way in taking care of this matter," and says nothing else.

Reading of Turbulent Germany to the public drinking place, should be subject to cancellation on abuse of its privileges.

I am speaking in large generalities, because that is the only way to handle the question with any sort of briefness. But these basic policies are the principles upon which temperance can be built. Whatever drinking there is must positively be in the open and under the least possible evil and injurious conditions. When drinking is in the open and is confined to reputable places, then reasonable legal restraint and proper moral suasion can be applied, but when drinking is driven into hidden places no legal restraint, no matter how reasonable, can be applied and no moral suasion can be of any effect.

WHY NOT decide frankly and simply that if we must have drinking we shall have decent drinking in decent places?

That involves only the selection of an adequate number of decent places and the licensing of those places to dispense the alcoholic beverages required by the average person in a proper and decorous manner. Sincerely yours,

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Jap Emperor Aids Salvation Army

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A gift of 5,000 yen (approximately $1,300) from the Emperor of Japan for the Salvation Army's Japanese building in San Francisco was announced by army officials here today.

The announcement said it was the first recognition ever given by the Japanese Emperor to a social service organization outside of his own country.

LENCHER FEARS NAZI TERROR

Terror struck in the heart of the European Jew when Germany quit the League of Nations Saturday, Judge Benjamin Lencher, of County Court, said at a testimonial held in his honor by the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night. Speaking before more than 1,0 0 people in the Morris Kaufmann auditorium, he said:

"We share with horror what yet may befall since Germany quit the League of Nations. I come with you this evening to pay a tribute to the values that we share."

When he was a boy, Judge Lencher, together with a group of other boys, conceived the idea of a Jewish community center in Pittsburgh.

After the banquet, he voiced a plea for support of the "Y's" coming campaign to raise $30,000, needed to pay off a deficit.

Judge Ralph H. Smith, of Common Pleas Court, gave a short address praising Judge Lencher.

Hyman Rogal, honoring the abilities of Judge Lencher, said:

"Right thinking makes the European Jew the finest American citizen."

Other speakers were Herman Passamanek and Irvin Lehman. Harry Applestein presided.

Roosevelts' Party Cruises on Potomac

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Roosevelt took a small party of guests for a short cruise down the Potomac River on the government yacht Sequoia yesterday, returning to the White House soon after 5 o'clock.

The party included Gov. Eugene R. Black, of the Federal Reserve Board, and Mrs. Black and Mrs. Isabella Greenway, new representative from Arizona.

PROBE TO URGE TIGHTENING OF U. S. TAX LAW

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Congress, on its return, will be asked to plug a series of loopholes in the federal income tax law, through which the government has lost millions of dollars of revenue in recent years, it was learned today from members of the Senate committee investigating Wall street.

The loopholes were disclosed during the Senate's stock market inquiry, which delved into the income tax returns of Wall street's greatest private bankers. The inquiry revealed that some of the nation's richest private bankers either avoided entirely or paid but nominal federal income taxes since the great crash of October, 1929, despite gross profits running into millions of dollars.

TAX DODGERS BARED

Ferdinand Pecora, the Senate's special counsel, bared these tax-dodging schemes in order to furnish information on which to base a revision of the income tax law. He revealed that partners in J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Dillon, Read & Co., Wall street's greatest triumvirate, had taken advantage of the law to escape income taxes.

J. P. Morgan himself escaped federal taxes in 1930, 1931 and 1932, although his income ran into millions of dollars. He charged off depreciation in his stock investments against his great income. This was permissible under the capital gain and loss provisions of the law.

HESITANT ON REPEAL

Members of the investigating committee were hesitant about repealing the capital gain and loss section. They realized this section would insure heavy revenues as soon as business recovers, but they hoped to find some amendment preventing its use to avoid taxes in depression years.

As revealed by the inquiry, a few of the tax-dodging schemes were:

1—Thomas S. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co.: Sale of stock to his wife, lending her the money to make the purchase and taking a note in return. Later, he repurchased the stock by the simple expedient of tearing up the note. The plan saved Lamont $1,440.29 in taxes.

2—William Ewing, of J. P. Morgan & Co.: Creation of four trust funds for his children, with himself and his wife as trustees selling stocks short for the trust funds, then lending their personal stocks to the funds to cover the short sales and taking the proceeds as security for loan of the stocks. The government tried to collect $60,687.13 from Ewing and $52,528.13 from his wife, but their plan was foolproof.

3—Otto Kahn, head of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.: Sale of a block of stock to his daughter, Mrs. Maud E. Marriott, on December 30, 1930, while she was in Europe, and assignment of the stock back to Kahn three months later without compensation. Kahn charged off a $117,000 loss on his income tax return. The government tried to collect a tax on this sum, but Kahn's plan was held legal.

4—James V. Forrestal, of Dillon, Read & Co.: Creation of a Canadian corporation, with Forrestal trading his security holdings for stock of the company. The Canadian company selling the stocks later without being subjected to American income taxes. Forrestal then created a Delaware corporation into which he passed the stock of the Canadian corporation, so he could escape Canadian inheritance taxes in event of his death.

LACK OF FUNDS PERILS STATE SCHOOLS

By WILLIAM J. KELLY
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 16.—Thousands of Pennsylvania's youth face locked school doors and a denial of educational opportunities unless the commonwealth appropriates an additional $11,000,000 for the biennium, Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction, asserted today in an interview.

Salary reductions, curtailment of activities, greater relief burdens, and a general closing of schools will follow if this sum is not received, he predicted.

According to the superintendent, educational finances will be included in Gov. Pinchot's proclamation summoning the Legislature into extraordinary session some time next month.

SCHOOLS IN NEED

Dr. Rule explained:

"If the $25,000,000 bond issue is approved by the voters in November, it will clear the deck for us to get money. If it is defeated, the Legislature must raise the funds.

"I shall urge the $11,000,000 appropriation as an essential part of the recovery drive because wages must be kept at reasonable standards to continue purchasing power.

"If this special appropriation is not made and schools close in numbers that now seem certain, the additional drain on relief agencies will be greater than amounts for which we are asking. Closing of schools in some instances will throw virtually whole communities on relief."

Dr. Rule urged that $5,000,000 be set aside for assisting financially distressed districts. Five millions of the remainder is necessary for teachers' salaries as paid under the Edmonds Act; $650,000 for transporting students; $300,000 for vocational education, and $96,500 for salaries of county and assistant county superintendents.

Because of the mad scramble for the money the state expects to collect on a liquor tax when repeal is realized, he sees little chance of the Education Department getting any of that income.

URGES TAX

As a solution of the problem, he suggested adoption of an income tax or some other taxation system that "will make it possible for the state to carry a larger share of the cost of public schools and relieve the load on real estate."

A graduated income tax would require an amendment to the state constitution and, consequently, could not be placed before the voters until 1938. A flat income tax or manufacturers' sales tax could be adopted at the proposed special session as an emergency measure.

Failure of the Legislature to appropriate $11,000,000, Dr. Rule warned, will mean "further drastic cuts in teachers' salaries during the second year of the biennium." He regards this method of economy "directly contrary to the spirit of the NRA."

Pittsburgh Man Arrested in N. J.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Rudolph Ficht, 25, of Cleveland, and Robert McGowan, 35, of Sandusky street, Pittsburgh, were arrested early today on suspicion by a police highway patrol.

Police said the two men had in their possession $370 in allegedly counterfeit $10 bills. Ficht and McGowan were driving along a boulevard when the patrol stopped their automobile for investigation.

Angry Motorist Butts Wall in Cell, Injured

Arrested after he had driven an automobile against traffic in Penn avenue early today, Harry Humbert, 18, of 50 North First street, Duquesne, gave vent to his indignation by bumping his head against his cell, according to Central Station police.

He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital, where five stitches were taken to close two lacerations on his head, and then returned to the station.

AMATEUR TRAPS DEATH SUSPECT

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—As an amateur sleuth Michael Schwartz, 26, got his man, but—he got arrested himself.

However, in jail today was a man police identified as Jack Blewar, 32, held as a suspect in the killing of Michael's brother, Nicholas, last September 12, during a $10 robbery.

Since the slaying Michael and police have sought Blewar for questioning, but it was the former who cornered him yesterday and notified police who, in addition to seizing him, took his sweetheart and two men into custody.

Then after it was all over, Lieut. Steve Barry said he discovered that Schwartz was carrying a gun and was forced to arrest and hold him, but, he said police would intercede for him.

ACTION ON CITY RUBBISH LAW PROMISED

Action on the city's long delayed garbage and rubbish disposal contract ordinance for 1934 is promised this week by Councilman Frank L. Duggan, chairman of Council's Health Committee.

The ordinance, prepared by the Department of Public Health, has remained for approximately six months in the Health Committee with no effort being made to call it out for action.

The ordinance, if passed, would authorize the city to make a garbage and rubbish contract for one, three or five years. Civic organizations have long urged the city to adopt the long-term contract, thus encouraging more bidders. The present contract is for a year and is held by the American Reduction Company and the Allegheny Garbage Company. Civic groups argue that no firm except those now holding the contract would risk construction of a reduction plant and purchase of collection equipment on a one-year contract.

SEE LITTLE HOPE

Two of the civic bodies, the Civic Club of Allegheny County and the League of Women Voters, see little hope of securing the long-term contract next year.

Mrs. R. P. Keenoy, chairman of the League of Women Voters' city government committee, charges that Council has been negligent in regard to the long-term contract. So little time remains before the first of the year that outside bidders could not construct a plant and prepare for collections, according to Mrs. Keenoy.

Dr. Marion McKay, president of the Civic Club of Allegheny County, also fears that the long-term contract will not be made next year.

NOT TOO LATE

He says:

"Unless Council takes prompt action the door will be shut to other bidders."

Councilman Duggan is not yet certain that the long-term contract will save the city money. He says he and Dr. William W. McFarland, health director, will discuss the contract this week. Duggan also is of the opinion it is not too late to obtain a representative number of bidders on a long-term contract beginning January 1, 1934.

Councilman P. J. McArdle, like Mrs. Keenoy, sees little hope for the long-term contract in 1934. McArdle also points to the short time remaining for other bidders to prepare themselves.

Councilman McArdle is of the opinion that more bidders could be induced to compete for the contract if the city constructed its own reduction plant. McArdle points out that many potential contractors are excluded from the bidding because they lack sufficient capital to build their own plant. If the city owned its plant it could contract for the collection of garbage and rubbish, he says.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Don't forget, fellows, that Junior Patrol members are pledged to help others. First of all you want to help your own mother and father.

And you ought to help your brothers and sisters, too. But after them you want to be kind to everyone, especially those who are suffering and in need.

For instance, there are always lots of people in hospitals who can't see the beautiful world outside and can't see the faces of their friends. The time goes slowly for them.

If you have a friend ill in bed, go see him or her if he can receive visitors. Take him books and magazines if he can read, and flowers and bright fall leaves.

Mildred Mason, of Pitcairn, Pa., who is already a Junior Patrol member, sends in pledges for six of her friends. She says in her note:

"I got these pledges from my school friends. I am organizing a Junior Patrol Club. I am going to try to get some more if I can."

We surely hope you do, Mildred. Don't forget, the next time you write, to send your street address with your letter.

Jane List, of 1104 Craig street, McKeesport, is another girl who is almost ready to get an armband. Today she sent six pledges into headquarters. Fine, Jane, and when you have 10 members signed up, be sure to hold your first meeting right away. Then send us a letter and announce your captain's name.

Ella Campbell, of Woodville, writes that she has two members in her patrol now. The patrol's colors are red and green. We can only send one armband for each patrol, Ella, since each patrol has only one captain. We will send the captain of your patrol an armband as soon as you have 10 members and elect a captain. You need eight more pledges.

Doris Adreon, of 2370 Sherbrook street, Squirrel Hill, is also starting a new patrol. She has four members now, and she is getting more. In her letter, she says she will write again as soon as her patrol has its first meeting.

MINERS RESUME COMMERCIAL PIT WORK

Early Sunday, police reported that a deputy's shack at Colonial No. 3 was dynamited. No one was hurt.

Pickets reported that four sticks of dynamite were thrown at their picket lines, but failed to explode. John Yuncheck and Carl Compardo, pickets, turned the explosive sticks over to Attorney Anthony Cavalcante, it was said. Pickets appearing at the captive mines were not disturbed by state police.

In Greene County, many of the mines remained closed in sympathy.

LARGE MINES REOPEN

Among the larger mines resuming in the Allegheny Valley were the Harwick, with 350 men; the Wildwood, with 300, Ford Collieres No. 2 and No. 3, with 400 and 450 respectively.

All of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation mines were reopened.

And all but five of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's 17 mines resumed. Four still closed along the Monongahela River and the fifth, at Midland, were expected to resume tomorrow.

The decision to go back to work in the Allegheny and Kiski valleys was made at a meeting of 30 local leaders yesterday in Polish Hall, New Kensington. They voted to return to work in all the pits that have signed the code and have agreements with the United Mine Workers. The Springdale Mine of the Allegheny and Pittsburgh Coal Company, subsidiary of the West Penn Power Company, is expected to reopen tomorrow.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY

In Westmoreland County, the majority of the larger mines were reported working, with slight changes from last week. Approximately 8,000 miners were at work in union-contract mines. About 2,000 miners in the Latrobe district remained out because the operators had failed to sign a union contract. There was no picketing reported.

REVISE RETAIL PRICE FIXING

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—New efforts to preserve the price control feature of the retail codes were in progress today at NRA headquarters, despite the intense opposition of the Farm Administration to setting minimum levels below which goods may not be sold.

Officials, believing that most of the opposition resulted from what they regarded as a misapprehension that the proposed invoice cost plus 10 per cent regulation would guarantee merchants a profit of ten per cent, were working to replace the provision without sacrificing its net results.

There was evident awareness of the pressure of farm sentiment against NRA's lifting of prices ahead of substantial rise in farm purchasing power. This situation, officials said, had led to discussion of exempting from the wage lifting program small establishments, employing less than 10 or so employes, located in communities of 2,500 or less.

They said however, that this was merely one of many suggestions talked over.

Indications were strong that this proposition, originated in connection with the retail code, would not be incorporated in that compact at this time.

FORD WORKERS DEFY PICKETS

CHESTER, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Entering through lanes of strikers, workers estimated at about 600 returned to work today at the Ford Motor Company's assembly plant, closed since September 26 on account of a strike.

Chester police guarded the gates to the plant, but there was no disturbance. Union leaders said a number of employes, coming to work from Philadelphia, were induced at suburban Glenolden to return to their homes.

Last week the company announced the plant would reopen today, asked former employes to return, and stated that "due to seasonal demands a curtailment of the force is necessary."

BLAST 3 HOMES IN COAL STRIKE

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Two dwellings in Plains Township were dynamited early today. The bombings were the second and third within 24 hours. Early yesterday the home of Ray Bierbach, a foreman for the Hudson Coal Company, was dynamited.

Homes blasted today were those of Isaac Foster and John Pitt. Foster is a foreman, and Pitt a miner at the Hudson Company's Delaware colliery.

State police today continued to escort workers to the colliery. Several hundred pickets jeered 20 automobile loads of miners as they were escorted to the workings, but no violence occurred.

Murder Charge Averted as Death Waits Half Hour

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Henry Harmon died yesterday of a heart attack. If he had died half an hour earlier it would have been murder.

Harmon, a restaurant cashier, was the victim of a holdup man. The man escaped, but half an hour later Harmon was called upon by police to look over a suspect, William Duff.

Brought face to face with the prisoner, Harmon fell dead. Police said that if he had suffered the heart attack during the actual holdup, the charge against Duff would have been first degree murder.

Strikers Watch Weir Battle Over Arbitration

By DAVID ROSENTHAL
Staff Correspondent.

WEIRTON, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Eyes of striking employes of the Weirton Steel Company were on Washington today for the battle between E. T. Weir, head of the company, and NRA officials over arbitration.

William J. Long, for many years an employe, and other strike leaders, were in Washington to present their side of the controversy before the National Labor Board.

PLANT WORKING

J. C. Williams, president of Weirton Steel, today declared the company was operating at 50 per cent of capacity. He said:

"Operations of the Weirton Steel Company are fast approaching normal. Our steel production is at 50 per cent of capacity or 10 per cent above the average of the steel industry.

"There are six open hearths in operation out of 12; one blast furnace out of two; and the coke plant, blooming mill and other departments incidental to the steel works are operating in full. All finishing mills are operating in every department with conditions rapidly approaching a normal state."

Truck Mine Group Protests NRA Code

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 16.—Claiming the price of coal as provided in the NRA code will mean their extinction, the Tri-County Coal Operators' Association today entered protest with federal officials against the code.

R. R. Bowie, president of the group, states similar associations in the district will take the same action. Bowie said big coal producers will be able to ship coal and sell it at a cost lower than the truck mines can produce it.

'Princess' Dall Has Locks Shorn

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The President's little granddaughter, Sistie Dall, who looked like a story-book princess on inauguration day with long, fair hair falling far down her frock, doesn't look that way any longer.

Sistie's mother, Mrs. Anna Dall, gave her daughter a haircut, and now Sistie appears in the bobbed hair which has become almost uniform in young America.

M'GRADY RAPS STRIKERS

International News Service.

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 16.—There is a minority in this country in both industry and labor that is threatening the whole prosperity program, Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady, charged today in addressing the Democratic Club of Genesee County. He said:

"It is the 10 per cent of recalcitrants that is holding back the quick march on the road to prosperity."

McGrady said there is no need for employers to lock their workers out in any dispute and there is equally no need on the part of the workers to strike to rectify any wrong. He declared:

"Whatever differences, whatever misunderstandings there are, all of them can be settled without aggressive action on either side."

This can be done by appealing to the local boards and if not satisfied, an appeal can be taken to the National Labor Board in Washington.

Judge W. Heber Dithrich today ordered Morris Balter, 1205 Howard street, to appear in court next Monday to show cause why he should not be held in contempt in connection with the cleaners and dyers' strike.

Balter is a member of the local union. George H. Seruset, president of the D. H. Seruset Company, 635 Paulson avenue, alleged that Balter attacked a driver of his company October 11 in Stanton avenue, in violation of the court's temporary injunction granted September 28. Balter was fined $5 by Police Magistrate J. J. Sweeney, the charges set forth.

"WE RENT ALL THREE.. BUT MOST PEOPLE WANT Plymouth"

"There must be a reason when twice as many patrons want PLYMOUTH"

AN INTERVIEW WITH ALBERT M. ZUCH, MANAGER, U-DRIVE-IT CO., AKRON, OHIO

"OUR CUSTOMERS can have their choice of all three leading low-priced cars, or of more expensive ones."

"BUT MOST OF THEM pick Plymouth. People will even wait around for one to come in if none is on hand."

"EVERYONE LIKES hydraulic brakes. So do we, for the brake bands require but half the usual attention."

ALBERT ZUCH'S branch of the Ohio U-Drive-It Company today is operating nine Plymouth cars to four each of the other two low-priced leaders.

"People are sold on hydraulic brakes," Mr. Zuch will tell you. "And I can see why—because we have fewer accidents with cars that have them.

"Then, too, no other car we have can beat Plymouth on low maintenance. We hardly ever have to touch the engines.

"And that's something, when you remember that our cars have different drivers nearly every day!"

Salesmen want a restful ride. Floating Power engine mountings eliminate vibration. Women like Plymouth's style, room and easy handling.

Everyone wants a car that's solid and dependable. Plymouth's Rigid-X, double-drop frame is far stronger. Its body is steel reinforced with steel.

TO THE TRUCK MINE COAL PRODUCERS IN WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

The Sub-Divisional Code Authority for Western Pennsylvania, under authority vested in it by the Code of Fair Competition for the Bituminous Coal Industry, approved by President Roosevelt September 18, 1933, and effective October 2, 1933, has established a list of prices for coal produced and sold by mines shipping by trucks, which list is effective October 16, 1933, and a copy of which has been mailed to each such producer whose address we have.

Any truck mine producer not receiving such a list can obtain it from the classification engineers, Eavenson, Alfred & Hicks, 1300 Union Trust Building, Pittsburgh, Pa., or B. F. Hoffacker, Park Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Any producer selling coal at less than these list prices is violating the code, and is subject to all the penalties named therein.

CITRUS FRUITS HELD CURE FOR DENTAL ILLS

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL
Universal Service Science Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—By feeding large doses of citrus fruit, especially orange juice, definite cures among adults and children have been accomplished in cases of mild to severe forms of outstanding dental diseases.

Among these widespread diseases are gingivitis (gums disease) and pyorrhea, and dental caries or tooth decay.

Most spectacular has been the cure of trench mouth or Vincent's Angina, a particularly severe form of mouth soft tissue infectious disease.

This apparently epoch making work has been done by Dr. Milton T. Hanke, bio-chemist of the Otho S. A. Sprague Memorial Institute, University of Chicago, at the request of the Chicago Dental Research Club consisting of 12 eminent practicing dentists who supplied the patients for these tests.

Dr. Hanke revealed all this in an exclusive interview for the Hearst newspapers, while here for a few hours today. A full report soon will be published from the "University of Chicago Press" under the title, "Diet and Dental Health."

The large curative dose in treatment of these dental diseases was 16 ounces of orange juice, with the addition of some lemon juice. This corresponded to a daily drink of freshly prepared juice of 8 to 10 California, or Florida, or any other standard sized oranges.

Mild forms of gingivitis disappeared in 30 to 60 days, longer time was required for severer cases. As for dental caries or tooth decay, Dr. Hanke found that:

"Dental caries either stopped entirely, or continued at a reduced rate in a large percentage of the people who had previously been afflicted with a rampant form of disease."

In case of growing children the most susceptible time for dental diseases is pubescence. Eight to sixteen ounces of orange juice daily helped the children to tide over this period satisfactorily.

Question of 'Other Woman' In Triangle Asked Again

Or should she always be condemned—rated a sneaking criminal—treated as an outcast?

Can anything be said on her side?

Or is she just a conscienceless pirate, out to rob and plunder?

What is your answer to those questions?

Joan would like to know.

My dear Miss Robinson:

I am going to ask you a question, and I hope that you will publish it in your column.

It is a question that most of us, at one time or another, have felt must be solved, either for ourselves, our friends, our friends' friends—or maybe even for dear old Aunt Sophia.

The Eternal Triangle—man, wife, and "The Other Woman."

Is it not possible that perhaps real, true love does exist, sometimes, between a husband and "The Other Woman?"

And why, pease, is this "Other Woman" always put in the Dog House? Can't anyone, any time, give her a break, and maybe admire her spirit, her courage in living and loving, regardless of the risk of losing her reputation, her friends?

Truthfully, can't you imagine it may be the wife's doing, if there is another woman? Don't you believe that the average decent husband would never turn to another woman, unless the wife herself gives him sufficient reason to do so?

WHAT SHOULD WE THINK?

If we could just be told whom we should love, or whom we should go on loving—but we can't! You don't know, yourself, whom you might find yourself loving—without wanting to at all.

Of course, I don't recommend or uphold Free Love. That isn't what this letter is intended for.

But might there not be a really, truly, honest-to-goodness love between two people, even if the man is married? And is an "affair," where such love is, such a horrible, unmentionable thing?

Speaking for the thousands who have faced, are facing or may have to face this problem, I wonder—what should we think of the "Other Woman?"

Should she always be condemned—looked on with scorn? Is she always such a terrible creature?

Or is there something to be said on her side?

JOAN.

SEND YOUR OPINION

A tremendous problem, and a sincere letter. So let's give Joan the best answer we can. I have certain ideas; but perhaps yours are better than mine. Perhaps in a mixture of all our ideas we'll find the truth. So—you start.

Have you known of a case where there was "another woman?" What did you think of it? Who did you think was to blame? Was that home really perfectly happy before the other woman came along? Or was it already crumbling? Whose fault was it, if it was? As a judge and jury, what's your verdict?

And, since this is perhaps the sorest question in all the long feud between men and women, let's throw the column wide open, and get some opinions. Tell us what you think.

By FAY KING.

A plan girl often envies a prettier one, yet much of that beauty may be applied improvement.

Prettiness is usually the result of enhancement. We see hair brightened, and expensively waved. The most costly cosmetics used, and a pose and grace that are studied.

Of course this is all attractive, but if the beauty were suddenly deprived of these advantages we would discover that the difference between her looks and those of the plainer girl are less than at first admitted.

And among older women, too, there is a stylish stout who sticks to her own individual styles which give her a distinction that outshines older women who follow fads and diet to skin and bone. They may look "ritzie" but she looks real and dignified.

Story of a Long-Forgotten Letter Is Revived

I do not think there is any other such healing for frayed nerves as lies in the touch of a little child. As I felt the tiny body of my daughter, Faith, close in my arms, and touched my finger lightly to her rose leaf cheek, I felt all the tremors and irritations of the day scurry away like frightened rabbits.

It was an abode of peace, I thought—this quiet nursery where Katherine kept wise guard over my idolized child—and as I sat I gave myself up to the sheer joy of feeling that soft, tiny face and hands so close to my own.

"May I rock her?" I asked Katherine pleadingly.

"Go ahead!" my little kinswoman answered, adding whimsically, "Rock her to sleep; she's almost due for a nap."

"I'm going to," I said. "I'm not a bit altruistic today. I'm even going to sing to her."

"She's asleep," I whispered at last, and Katherine, who had seated herself by the window looking out over the lawn, came swiftly toward me.

"Shall I take her, or do you wish to put her in the crib yourself?" she asked.

"You," I returned hastily. "I'm so afraid she may wake and spoil it all."

OLD PAIN RETURNS

Katherine stooped and took the tiny, sleeping form from me, then stood looking down upon my daughter with such unconscious love and longing in her eyes that I felt my heart contract with an old pain. It was made up partly of pity for Katherine's thwarted motherhood, and partly of a jealous fear that my child, because of her care and my absence, might grow to love the faithful nurse better than me, her mother.

But the unworthy part of that pain lasted only for the fraction of a second, and there was nothing but love and compassion in my eyes as Katherine moved away and tenderly, skilfully deposited the sleeping babe in her crib. When she returned to me, I caught at her hand and drew her down until her cheek touched mine.

"Katrina, Katrina," I said huskily, "what would I ever do without you?"

She raised her head as if I had struck her.

"Why do you say that just at this time?" she asked. "Are you clairvoyant?"

I stared at her, then at something in her eyes, and I rose quickly, facing her.

"Do you mean," I asked, "that you have heard from Jack?"

I saw my mistake before the words were fairly out of my mouth. She would have offered me her confidence, but at that crass question she shrank into herself.

"No, I don't mean that," she said.

"Forgive me," I pleaded. "I should not have asked you that; but I could not think of any other reason why you should think of leaving here?"

MEMORY OF LETTER

Her eyes were suddenly somber, troubled.

"Couldn't you?" She asked. "Suppose—"

She stopped short, her eyes suddenly looking away, while I stood miserable, not knowing what to say, undecided as to whether I should speak at all.

"Do you remember?" she asked at last, still keeping her eyes averted from me, "that awful letter that woman wrote me from South America, where she said Jack—Jack wanted to have me—"

Did I remember that cruel, insolent letter, which I believed to be a trumped up falsehood, in which the sister of Jack Bickett's associate in South America told Katherine that her husband wished her to divorce him because he loved the writer of the letter? That letter was seared in my memory, not alone because of its contents, but because I had sent it back to my brother-cousin without Katherine's knowledge.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

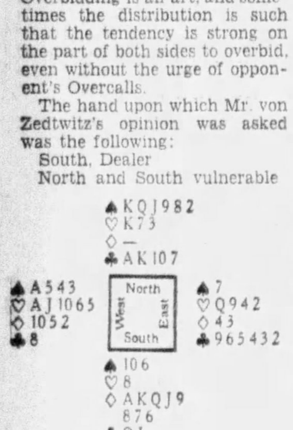
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Overbidding

"Can you imagine a silly pair bidding seven hearts on such cards?" a very fine Bridge player, the wife of a foreign diplomat, asked Mr. Waldemar von Zedtwitz the other day after a Duplicate session at one of the New York clubs. Mr. von Zedtwitz is noted as one of the finest analysts of hands—their potential tricktaking powers and hence also the question of when and why they should be overbid—that there is in the world, but when this question was propounded to him, he scratched his ear with even more than his usual vigor. In fact, a slight flush appeared on his classic features because, as it happened, the Baron and his partner were the "silly pair" that the lady had so scathingly denounced. Overbidding is an art, and sometimes the distribution is such that the tendency is strong on the part of both sides to overbid, even without the urge of opponent's Overcalls.

The hand upon which Mr. von Zedtwitz's opinion was asked was the following:

South, Dealer
North and South vulnerable



A number of South players bid six diamonds, and two of them were fortunate enough to make it because of the failure of defense. Of course, four diamonds is the limit that can be made against proper defense. North can make five spades, regardless of the line of play adopted by East and West, and East and West cannot afford, from a mathematical standpoint, to take a set of even 4 tricks, so a defensive bid of six hearts, to say nothing of one of seven hearts, is entirely unjustified.

At one table Messrs. John Mattheys and Walter Beinecke held the East and West hands. The defensive bidding of Mr. Mattheys was very fine. The auction went as follows:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♡	Double	4 ♡
5 ◇	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ◇	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bid of four hearts was a brilliant one. It was a splendid effort, and in this case an effectual one, to prevent the North and South partnership from exchanging sufficient information to determine the tricktaking power of the combined hands. South's bid of five diamonds, in view of the tremendous number of cards of that suit held, was fully justified, and North's bid of five spades comes as a matter of course. When South bid six diamonds, he did so without the slightest reflection, and unquestionably the bid was a very poor one. For all that South knows, North may be void of diamonds; he may, in fact, hold practically the exact combination of cards which he does hold. In that event the bid of six diamonds is extremely dangerous. In fact, if six diamonds should be bid on the hand it is up to North and not to South to make the bid, because the bid of five diamonds after an original pass discloses that South holds tremendous strength in diamonds if North has a genuine vulnerable Double of an adverse Opening bid.

Where East and West suffered their major disaster—namely, at the table where Mr. von Zedtwitz was playing with Mr. Raymond Balfe—Mrs. Lillian Peck and Mr. Howard Schenken were holding the North and South hands, and somehow or other East and West kept on bidding as a defensive measure up to a Grand Slam in hearts, although North and South cannot make even a Small Slam in any suit against the best defense. Of course, this was doubled and was set 1350 points.

Rarely has a hand produced greater swings in any Duplicate game which I have witnessed.

Against the six-diamond contract played by South, the defense is almost self-evident. Naturally, West will open one of the Aces, and where the bidding has gone as detailed above, he should probably open the Ace of hearts. When he sees the situation in the Dummy, he will know that a club lead or a heart continuation is futile. There remains then only the alternative of laying down the Ace of spades and continuing with another spade, which his partner will ruff. Why this obvious defense was not adopted at all tables I cannot understand.

Today's Question

I hold Ace-Ten-small in clubs and Dummy has three small clubs. Declarer leads the club Queen from his hand. Should I take it?

Answer—Not unless you have some particular desire to acquire the lead immediately. If your partner has the King, by letting him win it you will make your Ace-ten in major tenace over Declarer's Knave. If Declarer has the King, you know that you will always have another chance to win the Ace.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Gas Poisoning a Menace to the Auto "Tinkerer"

Not long ago I wrote on the subject of gas poisoning. It was pointed out that many serious cases of gas poisoning could be traced to leaky coal and gas stoves, gas tubing, gas jets and defective flues. I suggested that this danger could be prevented by the timely inspection of stoves and pipes and the prompt repair of all defective parts.

Dr. Copeland

It was stated that gas poisoning is caused by the inhalation of a deadly gas called carbon monoxide. This is found in combination with natural gas, coal gas, illuminating gas and in the exhaust of gasoline motors. I described how rapidly this gas attacked the human body. It is distressing to learn that deaths from this cause exceed all other deaths from poisons combined.

Serious and fatal cases of carbon monoxide poisoning are often caused by the inhalation of the poisonous vapors from the exhaust of an automobile.

When a motor is kept running, as in a closed garage, the gas cannot escape. It will overcome all who come in contact with it. In most instances its inhalation leads to sudden death.

Many men like to tinker with their cars. Often weather conditions to not permit work outdoors, and it is done indoors. It is dangerous to work on a car in a poorly ventilated garage. I cannot overemphasize this danger, and warn you of the peril of inhaling the fumes of the exhaust.

Never work on your car if the garage doors are closed. Always open the doors and windows regardless of how cold it may be outdoors. A good plan is to securely attach a hose pipe to the end of the exhaust pipe and lead the hose outdoors. This will assure you of safety from the carbon monoxide from the exhaust of the motor.

I am glad to say that New York state and many other states realize the dangers of gas poisoning by automobiles. The department of public vehicles constantly warns of this peril. The fatalities could be reduced to a minimum if all car owners would take the necessary precautions.

BUNNY PATTERN 576

An Easy Bunny to Make

Of all toy animals the children love, the Bunny is possibly the favorite. Perhaps his long ears that make a comfortable handle to hold on to—perhaps his cute face and plump little body—gain him his popularity. Surely no youngster could resist a bunny like this one, which has a coat that can be put on and taken off, according to the weather, or the child's mood. It has another feature that greatly adds to his appeal—his arms are so joined on that they are floppy, as can be seen on the illustration without the jacket. This feature is one that the needlewoman can welcome even more than the youngster, for it makes the animal especially easy to do. The bunny, of course, is lovely in a soft white material, with a very gay print for his jacket—or done in a bright print with a plain colored jacket. When finished, he stands about 10 inches high, without measuring his ears.

Pattern 576 comes to you with the pattern of the bunny and the jacket and full directions and yardages for making each.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to attend a formal dance. What should I say when I am introduced to a girl, also to a young man?

CONSTANT READER.

"How do you do" is the correct acknowledgement. You can say this with a fine graciousness, and can even increase the graciousness by the addition of the name of the person, if you are sure that you have "caught" the name correctly.

Carrying a Purse

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it, or is it not, good form for a young lady to carry a purse when attending the theater with a young man friend?

F.

It is good form because there are many things that a girl wishes to carry with her, and she needs a receptacle for them. The point is that the purse should be a type appropriate to her costume.

PREACHER'S SON ADMITS KILLING

RIPLEY, W. Va., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Seventeen-year-old Ralph Eddy, charged with slaying his father and stepmother, was placed in the Jackson County Jail today to await grand jury action.

Missing since September 11, when the Rev. James Frank Eddy and his second wife, Mrs. Bertie Eddy were killed at their home at Trace Fork, the boy was arrested yesterday near Charleston.

Police Chief John Britton, of Charleston, who accompanied the youth to Ripley, said Ralph signed a statement saying he shot his father and stepmother. Britton said the statement gave as the reason for the killing that constant quarreling between the minister and his wife had caused the boy's nerves to break.

Eddy, pastor of a small church at Trace Fork, was found dead in a bedroom of the house, and Mrs. Eddy, who was shot and then beaten, was found on the roadside near the home.

NEW RIVER LOCK PLAN OPPOSED

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A report favoring increasing the available water supply in the Monongahela River in Pennsylvania and West Virginia by surmounting existing dams with flash boards, but opposing lock dimension changes at dams 10 to 15, inclusive, was announced today by the War Department divisional engineer's office.

Col. George R. Spalding, head of the St. Louis office, said "principal grounds upon which these conclusions are based are that further benefits expected from lock modifications are not great enough to warrant the necessary expenditures therefor."

Through the Spyglass Viewing the New

Starting in on a new week . . . getting our spyglass all polished up for the round of new things it's going to view during the coming days! And incidentally . . . presenting herewith a number of items it's seen thus far! Call Grant 6500 for names of the shops . . . or send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

* * *

With the bridge craze sweeping us all wholesale something should be done about possible bridge prizes (even if you aren't going to be the winner!) . . . and we've done it! Found some smart looking writing paper done up IN STYLE . . . for 55c the box. Fine white paper, or gray-striped . . . in note and semi-note size . . . 24 sheets and envelopes, of course.

* * *

We've gone Pirate in the true 1933 manner! Just slapped our hats off our brow and declared war on anyone who dares argue the matter. A pirate hat we chose (black felt with buckle effect) is $3.49 . . . not bad for something so new. And while noting this . . . take a look at the sailor with a tassel of monkey fur . . . same price.

* * *

Now as you know, we never can resist something which both appeals to our sense of good taste and thrift as well. These painted wooden trays do both—resembling, as they do, the antique French type in soft, faded colors which are ALMOST NEVER found for 35c! Variety of sizes. (They'd be nice gifts for later.)

* * *

Being in a "woolen" frame of mind . . . we spout out our next news item with triumph . . . Jersey Pajamas (lounging of course). This is the only spot in town which has this exact style . . . . a Russian-esque type of buttoned-up-on-the-shoulder-choker-neck which should occasion yells of approval from most of of you. In many two-tone color combinations 1 and 2-piece . . . frightfully swank looking . . . long sleeved . . . and snug for wintry evenings spent at home. $3.95 . . . sizes 14 to 40.

* * *

Clap yo' han's, chilluns . . . Patou has brought forth the new Patou mits which are guaranteed to cause hearts to quiver with delight! Snub and snobbish little wrist-length evening mits they are . . . kid, with perforations (like golf gloves strange to say!) . . . and ruffles 'round the thumb place and wrist! Flesh, red, gold chartreuse, black, blue, and white, $4.00.

* * *

What with chop suey and Chinese books and new Chinese influence clothes, we'll all belong to a "tong" ere long (poetic of us!) . . . so let us speak of coolie coats . . . for $1.25! Seems as if it has been difficult to find large sized ones . . . but one store has solved the problem and now offers them in good quality pongee . . . sizes up to 48.

* * *

As someone said "Up under your chin where fashions begin" . . . that's where you'll want to find this velveteen neckwear which we have grubbed for you. Brand new it is . . . collars ending in a flop-over Ascot effect and two covered buttons . . . green, red, black, blue and brown. $1 And lots of others in even grander effects—with squarish mirrored buttons f'rinstance!

* * *

And as for dresses—when YOU see the hairy-woolen with monkey fur that WE saw for $17.50, you'll probably make passes at it unless restrained. For its collar chokes you properly as fashion decrees . . . and the flanges on its sleeves wave monkey most invitingly for such a price. It is size 14.

In fact, most of these dresses we're yelping about here are for you smaller size biddies—another of brown crepe flaunting shot-with-gold taffeta collar and cuffs, size 12. And a tan mixture skirt which jumps up a bit upon the flame colored top in a smart high-waisted effect. Size 14.

And, of course, there are others . . . many of them . . . a particularly sweet thing being a rust woolen with a sleeveless jacket of screeching plaid velveteen finished with covered buttons and a belt. The sort of frock which turns stony hearts to water when it bounces in the door! It's a $19.75 number . . . size 14. But more later about these!

* * *

By the way . . . does your husband, brother, father, son or boyfriend smoke? Because if any of them do . . . they may like this gadget we found, a sort of smoker's companion . . . for 50c. It consists of a little metal case which may be worn on the watch chain . . . inside it a collapsible thingumajig with a little "spoon" . . . a couple of "picks" . . . and a tamper. All of which, we are assured, add considerably to the comfort of any pipe smoker—and to his wife or hostess. (We remember having seen everything from hairpins to toothpicks used for the purpose.)

By PRUNELLA WOOD

GIRLS who descend on their college beaux for week-ends that include football as well as tea for two hundred or so, should reflect that no woman can be charming when she works up a blue nose and the sniffles.

It is a far, far better thing to take one's tea dancing in a tweed suit which has provided one layer of warmth on the bleacher than to shiver through the quarters in a cute little silk number in anticipation of the cozy two-some before the fireplace that is to end the afternoon.

* * *

SO A coat and skirt over which a top coat of cloth or fur can be slipped is an ideal costume, both for traveling to the game and during it; and if the outfit is titivated with a swell hat, shoes and blouse, what could be more attractive at tea time?

* * *

FOR the evening hop some material that is packable without crushing and which is feminine enough to slay any man is the thing to choose. Lay off the long trains, but take in all the rest of the elegance that can be found. One more frock, something that can go to chapel, luncheon, or tea on Sunday after the holiday, and even be worn aboard the train for home is the other item with which to round out the week-end luggage. Tailored velvet is a good bet; so is crepe in one of the new dark shades. A smart, soft little hat to set it off can be easily poked into the bag, along with proper shoes.

Left, a man-tailored brown and tan tweed suit with a warm, matching topcoat. The bowler hat is brown and so are the calfskin brogues. The scarf is a colorful flash of red, yellow and brown. Center, a youthful dancing gown that combines a flattering cowled neck and deep back decolletage with the daring flash of lipstick red supple satin. Right, a Sunday frock of plaid velvet with a very new neckline and well-handled wide shoulders. It is rust, tan, and black, and the rust tone is picked up in the velvet visor cap.

"Thanks to the Blue Eagle, Business is Booming", confides Master Daniel Cupid

"You know something," said young Cupid, "last year in Pittsburgh my total bag was 519 marriage licenses. Instead of Cupid I was beginning to think maybe it should have been Stupid. But THIS September, with the old Blue Eagle whooping things up, I tallied no less than 777—or a net gain of 258 marriage licenses over September last year. Not bad, eh?"

Yes, Kewpie, that's a pretty good increase. It almost threatens the record increase in our own business this last September. And it seems to us that there's a relationship between this parallel. The better the marriage market the better is business at Harris'. You see, what with one thing and another this store has become sort of headquarters for the younger (marrying) set—because when a lad and lassie marry these days, they usually budget their expenses, at least for the first few years. And Harris' comes in oh, so handy for budgeteers. Just a case of telling us where the groom works—or the bride, for that matter—and the Extended Charge Account is opened as easily as falling off a log. A lot of youngsters get their trousseaux here too. Works the same way. Just let us in on your intentions, and we'll see you through to the altar.

For the information of newcomers to Pittsburgh, may we again remind you that NOT ONE CENT above our regular cash prices is charged for the use of the "months-to-pay" privilege. Also—should you be able to buy apparel of Harris quality for less than Harris prices, we'll refund without stuttering.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

After the grand opening of the debutante season this past week—no less than three debs made their curtsies to the grown-up social world—the interest of the social set will swerve to weddings this week.

There'll be one exception the first of the week when Margaret Rowe will be presented to society—the only debutante this week.

To Bow At Tea

Margaret will bow at a tea in the Twentieth Century Club Tuesday afternoon, which her grandmother Mrs. Benjamin B. Howell, of Alder Court Apartments, will give.

There'll be two entertainments for debutantes this week, however, one on Wednesday and another on Thursday. Mrs. John Z. Collier will give a bridge-tea for Barbara Verner Wednesday afternoon in the Twentieth Century Club, and Mrs. Pitt McCoy Nutty will give a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club Thursday for Florence Willock.

* * *

There'll be a most important event Thanksgiving night, a dance at the Fox Chapel Golf Club which Charles Edmund Beeson will give to present his daughter, Analana, to society.

There will be demands for adult education, workers' education and more adolescent education, Secretary Perkins said. She said:

"It must be practical, attractive and recreative. Teachers will have to submit to the same public test as the concert singer or shooting gallery. They will have to make education interesting and dramatic or their adult classes will walk out on them."

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: The Russell Patterson "first-night-jury" curtain which is shown during the intermission at the Joe Cook show caricatures 148 perennial first-nighters, critics, celebrities, et al . . . Including Primo Carnera and "Prince" Romanoff—but Stephen Rathbun, a first-nighter and critic for 25 years, is omitted . . . Robert Newman, who has been commuting between New York and Europe for Jimmy Walker, says that was a very touching tale about Jimmy—but don't you believe it—that Jimmy is up to his neck in pals from here . . . Rudy Vallee's opening at the Hollywood was the first time the word "sensational" should have been used. That is, the reception was, and his bow ovations.

I don't know what it means—but Al Smith, who edits the Outlook for the man who is backing La Guardia—dined the other night with the vice president of the Lit. Dige. Switching? . . . Lionel Barrymore didn't originate that obnoxous laugh-getter in "Grand Hotel" —it was in "Rasputin" . . . Fannie Brice and L. Holtz will guest of honor it at the Paradise Sunday night —sounds like a lotta fun . . . A. C. Blumenthal's property at the Ambassador has been leveed . . . L. Wolfe Gilbert has been signed by Eddie Cantor to prepare his future dialogue on the air . . . George Jean Nathan's gazette has not been taken over by Tower mags. Hugh Weir and Catherine McNelis of that group, however, have been elected officers of it . . . For good warbling, tune in on Alice Dawn at the new Roxy . . . The Harrison Smiths have an amicable agreement to get the divorce in Reno this winter, the Mex report being sour.

Margaret Warren got her melting from Lucien Jones a year ago, he has since remarried . . . Eugene Conrad says the line about John P. Medbury doing all the air routines for Burns and Allen embarrassed him—because he's been doing it since their fourth broadcast . . . Charles Riley, representing Ben Bernie, and Vera Hart of the Hart Sisters will marry soon . . . Health Commissioner Wynne's beautiful daughter Ethel finally clicked with Warner Bros. She's 18 and so pretty . . . "The Joy Peddler," which Sumner tried to suppress a few years ago, will be given another printing . . . Tell your friend John B. Kennedy of Collier's that in his speech the other night he said "most unique." . . . Blanche Ring, who once packed theaters, will try broadcasting for the new Ed Wynn network . . . Dennie Moore's favorite admirer purchased 40 seats at the premiere of "Happiness" . . . All the newsreel firms turned down the suggestion to "shoot" the lead in "Green Pastures" on the ground that their films were seen in the South . . . They feared offending Dixie . . . Wonder what they thought after reading the recent raves written by Southerners?

You cannot give too much exploitation to the benefit for the Actors' Dinner Club, it is the one organization in which the destitute get a 100 per cent break. . . . Fred Pasley's "Not Guilty" is also good reading. . . . When do you want seats for the Rodeo? . . . Tell your producer friends who are having trouble getting pretty girls that the loveliest are now the receptionists in the big advertising agencies. . . . Kelcey Allen, the critic, helped a person who afterwards stuck him with a $200 rubber check. The crook now has a good job and won't pay off—so Kelcey has a new way of humiliating him—he is throwing a dinner to which all other victims will be invited, as well as the movie trade press—and speeches will be made about the absent guest of dishonor. . . Not a bad way of evening matters, at that.

Adolph Zukor will be pleased to learn that his favorite nephew made good in Hollywood without anyone knowing Zukor was his uncle—considering all the legends about the "biggies" out there being relatives. . . . If you know anybody interested enough to want to help, there is a swell newspaperman of national reputation, who was hurt while war corresponding. He's now sleeping in Central Park and soliciting dimes. Get some offers and you can have his name—but not for print. . . . In Sardi's, the restaurant on 44th St., where people satisfy their hunger and gaze on likenesses drawn by Gard of celebs of other years—at least five caricatures stare back at the diners, the originals of which are in town wondering from where the next meal is coming.

I thought George Jessel's opening program last Saturday night was very good—and very brave he is to pick his spot opposing Jack Pearl, who certainly has a wide audience . . . The Broadway Theater near 53rd is having some sort of trouble—stench bombs drove out an audience the other night. . . . And the management ought to be wised up on how to bill stars—"Scarface" for instance, which is revived there, has Paul Muni in the tiniest type . . . Bankhead will be out and home next week—you have no idea how very ill she's been.

Ruth Etting's groom flew here from the Coast to settle a new radio contract. He is taking a train back, however, the air pockets proving too much for him. "M. B." says he subscribes to the same sentiments of Jane E. . . . I've had requests for copies of "How to Be a Reporter," by Mr. Brisbane . . . How do you get 'em? . . . Lyle Talbot's condition is improving.

Ogden Nash's song, "Quartet for Prosperous Love Children," was made by Victor but is only for private use . . . Very gay . . . That Kansas City gal is still having it tough—and Marty Lewis has a job for her, but can't find her . . . The latest syndicate list reveals some new clients . . . You can say for me that the camera does lie. I met Lillian Miles last night, who is prettier than "Moonlight and Pretzels" would have you believe . . . Joan Crawford will be here soon, according to a letter to Joe . . . And far be it from us to get in Jeannette MacDonald's lovely hair, but I have a letter from a Los Angeles lady who says she sees by the magazines how Jeannette offers to wager $5,000 that she isn't married to Bob Ritchie—and this lady would like to win that bet, claiming she could use that coin—and has the proof . . . Nothing else that can't wait—Your Girl Friday.

Page, Expatriate, Sailing for Italy

Page is a grandson of Thomas Jefferson Page, a commander in the Confederate navy, who went to Italy after the Civil War. The grandson was born in Italy.

Garbo Escapes Injury in Mishap

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—Traffic hazards are bad enough, but Greta Garbo will take her six-year-old limousine any day in preference to the stage coach used by Queen Christina of her native Sweden.

The star just had a narrow escape from injury when a replica of the royal coach, in which she and Elizabeth Young were riding, suddenly broke loose from the horses and rolled back down a 40-foot incline covered with slippery gypsum (movie snow).

Miss Garbo

The accident occurred on M-G-M's lot as cameras were grinding and the coach was making an entrance into the courtyard of the royal castle. Defective harness snapped and the heavy vehicle started to roll back down the incline.

Eight stalwart extras, playing members of the royal guard, quickly turned fictional roles into reality when they leaped after the runaway coach. With the aid of the crew which also rushed to the rescue, they managed to halt the vehicle before it overturned.

Smartest colored boy in Hollywood is Max Baer's valet and chauffeur. Yesterday he approached the fighter and asked for the loan of two dollars.

"What for?" asked Max.

"I want to go down on Central avenue and brag about you," was the cash-winning reply.

Will Hollywood be surprised to hear that the latest heavy romance in the film colony is between Barbara Weeks and Guinn "Big Boy" Williams? Heretofore too much interested in polo to have an eye for feminine beauty, Guinn recently has been escorting Barbara to the Bing Crosby-Richard Arlen party and to various other places. There's definite talk of elopement between them, and don't be surprised if it happens.

Printing of that story about Alice Brady receiving an offer of kidnap insurance brings cautious but apparently authentic tips that a number of such policies already are held by prominent film folk. Premiums are sky-high and the policies are said to be automatically voided the day the star admits having them.

Plays and Players :: By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Dinner at Eight," photoplay version—swell, too—of the Kaufman-Ferber play of the same title, is now in the third and final week of its engagement in the Nixon. This is a picture having many stars, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Billie Burke, John Barrymore, Marie Dressler, et al., but unlike many movies in which big stars have mere "bit" parts, "Dinner at Eight" gives all of those mentioned, as well as Edmund Lowe, Lionel Barrymore and Lee Tracy something to get their histrionic teeth into.

"Music in the Air," the Jerome Kern-Oscar Hammerstein operetta that ran all last winter and summer in New York, will come to the Nixon for one week, beginning next Monday evening, October 23. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. Listed in the prominent cast are Reinald Werrenrath, Walter Slezak, Al Shean, Donald Brian, Ann Barrie, Desiree Tabor, Harry Mestayer, Ivy Scott, Prince Alexis Obolensky, Nicholas Joy, Dorothy Johnson and Desha. A. C. Blumenthal, the producer, asserts that he will attempt to restore the stage by presenting the finest the theater has to offer on tour. For the current jaunt his show is carrying all its original scenery and all the instruments used in the pit, one of which is a trick piano with a zither attachment. Seats for the attraction will go on sale Thursday.

"She Loves Me Not," Howard Lindsay's dramatization of the Edward Hope novel of the same title, will have incidental music by Arthur Schwartz and Edward Heyman, the producers, Dwight Deere Wiman and Tom Weatherly, announce. It is now in rehearsal in New York after several postponements. The cast includes John Beal, Charles D. Brown, Polly Walters, Florence Rice, Philip Ober, Don Tomkins, Frederic Voight, John T. Dwyer, J. M. Kline, George Gilday, Harry Bellaver, Frances Brandt, Charles Adler, James O'Neil, Helen Buck, John Sola and others.

Irene Franklin, popular vaudeville and music star, is an addition to the "The Cat and the Fiddle," Ramon Novarro-Jeanette MacDonald co-starring film now being produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. This screen version of the operetta by Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach has in its cast Charles Butterworth, Frank Morgan, Vivienne Segal and Jean Hersholt.

Young Socialists Will Meet Saturday

The national executive committee of the Young People's Socialist League of America will hold its quarterly meeting here Saturday and Sunday. Aaron Levinstein, committee member from New York, will be the principal speaker Sunday at the Hillquit Memorial Meeting at the Y. M. and W. H. A., Bellefield avenue. A banquet will be held Sunday night at the Socialist Center, 1862 Center avenue.

Divine Sarah Wrong

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The late Renee Adoree used to tell how, as a child in a French theater, she had once watched from the wings a performance by Sarah Bernhardt. She was in tears when the famous actress, passing from the stage, noticed her and asked her why.

"I am crying," said Renee, "because I want to be a great actress like you."

Bernhardt patted her head and said, "If you cry, my child, you will never be a great actress."

But Renee cried—and she gave the screen its unforgettable Melisande in "The Big Parade."

Renee Adoree, whose childhood was spent in the rigorous surroundings of a traveling European circus troupe, loved gayety and life. She liked to have people around her, and at parties she was a sparkling center of attraction. And this was the girl whom fate condemned to die, still and quiet, on a desert hospital bed miles away from the screen life she loved.

She never equaled, before nor after, her success in "The Big Parade." But perhaps that was because she never again had a role like Melisande.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

Odds and Ends

TWO Broadwayites, friends for years, recently made an excursion to one of the race tracks on Long Island. The reason for the journey was an unusual one.

On the day previous, one man had gone to his friend's office and unfolded a tale that was very sorrowful, indeed.

"I'm desperate, George", he asserted, "and I come to you as a last resort. I've been playing the horses plenty heavily lately, and I've got myself into a mess of debts. I'm going to quit before I have to kill myself—but before I quit, there's one debt I simply must pay.

"I owe one bookie $1,900, and I've got to pay him. It's more a debt of honor than anything else. I swear that I'm through with the horses, but this one sum must be paid.

"Will you give me the $1,900 so that I can go to the track tomorrow and pay him? You'll be doing me the greatest favor of my life."

His friend looked at him long and searchingly. Then he spoke.

"You know my history, Frank," he returned, "as well as I know yours. You know that I almost lost everything by gambling too heavily and that I haven't been near a race track in years.

"But because you're probably my closest friend, I'm going with you to the track tomorrow. I'm going to pay that $1,900 debt myself because I very frankly am afraid to trust you with the money at the track. We'll pay the money before the first race and then blow.

"I'm doing this for you, Frank. And I'm doing it only because you're swearing to me that you'll never play another horse."

"I swear," cried his friend fervently. . . .

The two pals arrived at the track very early the next afternoon. George immediately paid the $1,900 debt in cash, and both men made ready to leave without watching a race.

Just then, it began to rain. George looked around him in disgust

"No use running to the car in this weather," he stated. "We'd be drenched. Might as well stay here for a while and see how the nags are running. After all, it's been so many years that I'll probably get a real kick out of it."

You know, of course, the end of the story. The man who had come to the track only to help his pal, bet a few dollars on the first race "just to help pass the time." The fever returned. He doubled his bet on the second race, and tripled it on the third.

And when the races were over for the day, he had dropped $21,000. . .

* * *

"I got a real bellylaff last Saturday," scribbles Al Klein. "Some chap at 46th street and Broadway was hawking a batch of those nickel song sheets. Over and over again he repeated the words:

"'Who's afraid of the big bad wolf? All the song hits for only a nickel. Who's afraid of the big bad wolf? Who's afraid of the big bad wolf?'

"He turned suddenly and saw a husky cop heading his way. And did he scram!" . . . .

* * *

IT actually happened, reports Mrs. Aileen Corey, up in Norwich, Conn., the other afternoon. One of the leading police officers of that city signaled a car to pull over to the curb. He leaned through the window.

"What's the idea," he inquired, "of tryin' to sneak by the light?"

The miscreant smiled feebly. He was driving through a strange town, he explained, and he hadn't noticed.

"Oh, yeah?" grunted the officer. "Where you from?"

The limb of the law drew himself up and scowled heavily.

"Don't you try to kid me, young feller," he roared. "You got Pennsylvania license plates on that car!" . . . .

* * *

It may be faintly familiar, but as Jack O'Keefe unfolded it the other night, the story sounded rather good. In a big railroad terminus, the man at the information booth and the lad at the newspaper stand were close friends. The chap at the newspaper spot was taken ill one night and, after his regular hours, the information man agreed to fill in for him.

All went well until five o'clock in the morning rolled around. The information man had been a trifle loud in his statements but, on the whole, he filled the job acceptably enough. His stand was almost empty when the woman stepped up to him.

"Have you a Mirror?" she asked. He shook his head. "Well," she went on, "have you a News or an American?" Again he shook his head.

"You're out of luck, lady," explained the information man, "I haven't a paper left."

He leaned forward confidentially.

"But tell me, lady," he smiled, "what did you want to know?"

* * *

HE'S a tall man, gray and very distinguished looking. He is very wealthy, they tell me, and all his life he has been interested in the study of cancer. Some four years ago he gave a million dollars to an institute for cancer research.

Asked at that time why he gave so much money to one specific work, his answer was extremely simple. He explained that he had a dread of the disease, and that it would be a great boon to mankind if a cure could be found.

I saw him the other night at the opening of one of our better clubs. He still goes out bravely, although he must write instead of talk, and there is a tube in his neck.

He is dying, poor man, of cancer of the throat . . .

Bing Crosby Broadcasts Tonight

Bing Crosby, popular troubador of radio, screen and stage, returns to the air in a regular Monday night series of programs over the Columbia-WJAS network, beginning tonight at 8:30.

* * *

Anthony Adverse

William Hervey Allen, whom many of us knew affectionately as plain "Bill" when he lived out Fifth avenue near Shady most of his life, is among the famous authors who will speak in daily broadcasts over the NBC-WJZ network this week.

This afternoon Isak Collijn, Swedish writer, is heard at 5:15.

Hervey Allen will discuss his best seller, "Anthony Adverse," over the NBC-WJZ network Friday afternoon at 5.

* * *

Josef Pasternack and his orchestra lead off with "The Prince of Pilsen;" Phil Duey follows with the robust "Brown October Ale." The program is an NBC-KDKA feature at 9:30.

* * *

Isham Jones and his musicians furnish the background for Gertrude Niesen's Broadway song revivals—"A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody," "Oh, Lady Be Good," "Who" and "Hallelujah"—heard over WJAS at 9:30.

Lulu McConnell also is heard in a comic sketch.

* * *

If they must sing it, it wouldn't be a bad idea to follow the Contented Hour's example in scheduling the "Last Roundup."

Tonight, over WCAE at 10, the program offers "Annie Laurie" and the "Roundup" simultaneously.

* * *

Frank Black's String Symphony heard over KDKA at 8, offers a concert of Beethoven and Mozart compositions.

* * *

A Castilian senorita and a handsome young American Soldier of Fortune, involved in intrigue, love and war in turbulent Mexico,—that's the story of tonight's Princess Pat dramatization, heard over KDKA at 10:30.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Here's a strange request.

From that question I presume the inquirer wants information on how to get in so that he can also get out.

Well in that case, write a letter to Warden Stanley P. Ashe. He's the man who gives the permission.

* * *

C. J. Bender, Monessen—Roses and Drums started this series of broadcasts a week ago yesterday. Their time now has been changed to 5 o'clock.

* * *

Alma Lheureau enthusiastically proclaims the merits of the girls' mushball team of Cecil. She claims for them the title of Western Pennsylvania champions and then winds up by saying that they won 50 games and lost three, a percentage of .493.

* * *

S. H. Swietzer, of Newell, says not to disappoint him. He wants a picture of the globe trotter. If I sent it, he would be disappointed.

* * *

Roxanne, in search of a job, writes that the man who said the wheels of industry turn slowly ought to sit in an employment office to know the real meaning of slow.

She hasn't lost courage, though. Her twinkling pen writes that an applicant must have the patience of Job, the courage of President Roosevelt, and the nerve of your neighbor, who borrows everything from salt to safety pins.

* * *

Allen Hendon—You can always get a song published by paying for it yourself. Why don't you try the leading publishing houses? If they think it merits publication they might publish it for you.

* * *

Young mother writes: "You seem to talk so much about caring for children that I'm going to give you a chance to prove it.

My husband and I expect to go visiting next Sunday, come over and take care of Junior, I have every confidence in your ability."

* * *

Astonished spectators often hear him addressed as "Popeye." For instance, "Hey, Popeye, is that the last bell." More astonished are they to see his spreading smile as he answers, "You better step on it pal. It is."

Skylarking In Radio Studios

By AIRCASTER

All the jokes in the radio book don't filter through the mike. Many of them are pulled behind the scenes with remarkable results.

A joker who stole their script during an audition forced the Sisters of the Skillet to ad lib, an emergency which brought them fame.

It was the same with Gene and Glenn, who had a script stolen and on the spur of the moment created their Jake and Lena.

There was also the Playboy who made a cellophane umbrella too kid Stoopnagle and Budd, who exploited the notion until a lad out west made one, had it patented and cleaned up a fortune because such beach umbrellas permit light but obviate sunburn.

* * *

Lucky Setback

The best joke of all, however, was that played by a Stooge last week, who turned back the hands of a performer's watch. The artist hurried to Newark Airport, but missed his plane—and the same plane blew up two hours later over Indiana.

* * *

Kate Smith sang "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" all the way through with the Philadelphia Symphony the other night in Philadelphia and raised thousands of dollars for the outfit.

It was the first time in a year that Kate sang her theme unabridged.

* * *

The new buildups by NBC will be the swell dramatic voices of Elsie Hitz and Nick Dawson in an equally swell series, "Dangerous Paradise," which opens October 25.

Joey Nash and Viola Philo are also on the buildup list.

* * *

Socialite

Ann Yardley, Pittsburgh society girl, will be featured soloist at WINS every Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

* * *

* * *

One trifling mistake in Friday night's magnificent March of Time—the narrator, speaking of labor disturbances referred to "Aimbridge" Pennsylvania. It's Ambridge, derived from the name of the mill—American Bridge.

* * *

Forecast

Last night's CBS farewell to Admiral Byrd leaves me skeptical about the success of the expedition's broadcasts from the South Pole.

The 2,000-mile pickup from England, with the most complete facilities, was not good. The Byrd broadcasters have 10,000 miles to overcome, under great handicaps.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Paul Gannon sings "The Song Is You" as the feature of his 6:45 broadcast.

Elbert R. Moses offers another of his fine "Great Americans" series at 6:15.

Restaurant Group To Meet Tuesday

The Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association will hold its monthly meeting in Heinz Auditorium, North Side, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Delegates who attended the National Restaurant Association convention in Chicago will submit reports. R. L. Gammon will preside.

Pittsburgh Girl Gets Phi Beta Kappa Key

Miss Dorothy Day, of 311 South Graham street, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity, at Allegheny College, Meadville, it was announced today.

Dr. Springer, 9:45 Pittsburgh time, every night, KYW Chicago, 1020 on dial. Tune in. —Advertisement.

MANY STORIES BEHIND RECIPES

Jobless Man's Wife Tells How Baking Aided Family

There are a great many ramifications in the Sun-Telegraph-Prudence Penny favorite recipe contest, and they all point to benefits for the housewives who read this newspaper. In fact, this contest is bringing out some interesting stories. One woman sends in a recipe for baking cookies and adds:

"My greatest pride has always been my cookie recipes. I have sold quite a few of the cookies and I know they must be good. My husband has been unemployed for two years and during that time my baking has helped to clothe my three children."

The Sun-Telegraph is still giving away $15 every day as awards for the best home recipes submitted in this contest—$5 for the best of the day and $1 each for 10 others. Housewives are invited to send their favorite recipes to Prudence Penny, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. If they are awarded a prize, the complete recipe will be published in the Sun-Telegraph for the benefit of other housewives.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE WINNER

CLARA KAISER,
3 Soffel street, Pittsburgh, Pa.
POTATO SOUFFLE

Three cups hot mashed potatoes.
Three tablespoons butter.
One cup milk.
Two eggs.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Add butter and beaten egg yolks to mashed potatoes. Beat thoroughly. Then beat in milk and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Mix lightly and pile into a well greased baking dish. Bake at 400 degrees until well browned. Serve immediately.

TEN $1 PRIZES

MARY JANE LOBAUGH,
Apollo, Pa.
CALIFORNIA PANOCHE

One 8-ounce can grapefruit.
Three tablespoons sugar.
Cook to a thick jam (222 degrees).
Mix three cups brown sugar.
Two-thirds cup condensed milk.
Two-thirds cup water.
Cook to 230 degrees.

Add the grapefruit and sugar mixture and continue boiling to 234 degrees. Cool to 120 degrees. Beat until creamy, adding one-quarter cup pecans at the last. Pour into a lightly buttered pan and mark into squares.

MISS HELEN UFFELMAN,
1265 Benton Ave., N. S. Pittsburgh
GERMAN POTATO DUMPLINGS

Fill a large preserving kettle two-thirds full of water. Heat to boiling. Pare four medium potatoes. Cover with water, boil until tender. Force through a potato ricer.

Pare six large potatoes, cover with cold water. Grate potatoes, keeping the pulp under water to prevent its discoloring. Strain through a thin bag. Allow the water from the pulp to run back into the bowl in which the potatoes were grated. Let stand until clear. Pour off water. Combine starch which remains in bottom of bowl with the dry potato pulp.

Add one-half cup scalded milk; one slice of bread which has been diced and browned in two tablespoons of butter; the riced potatoes, and one and one-half cups of flour. Salt to taste. Mix thoroughly.

Form into small balls. Drop into the rapidly boiling water. Cover, cook 30 minutes. The dumplings should rise to the surface in about 20 minutes. Remove one dumpling at end of 30 minutes. Break open, let stand a few minutes if done, the dumpling should look dry; if wet and soggy return to boiling water and cook five more minutes.

MRS. JOHN H. ADAMS,
88 N. Bryant. Ave., Bellevue, Pa.
TOKEY

One cup English walnuts crushed.
Three eggs.
Three and one-half teaspoons bread crumbs.
One cup sugar.
One and one-half teaspoons baking powder.
Fifteen dates, chopped fine.
Two teaspoons flour.

Beat together the yolks of the eggs and the sugar. Mix the flour and baking powder and add to the first mixture. Add the remaining ingredients. Finally beat the whites of the eggs until stiff and beat into the mixture. Bake in a moderate over (375 degrees) for 20 minutes. Cut into squares, heap whipedp cream on the top and place a marischino cherry in the center. This dessert will serve 12, and is best if served on the same day it is made.

MRS. STANLEY MALESKEY,
Allegheny St., Follansbee, W. Va.
PINEAPPLE AND ICE GRIDDLE CAKES

Two cups flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two teaspoons sugar.
One-half cup cold cooked rice.
Two-thirds cup water.
Two eggs.
One-half cup chopped or grated pineapple.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients, add the rice, and thoroughly mix; add the water, beaten eggs, and pineapple which has been thoroughly drained; add the melted butter. Mix together and bake on a hot griddle.

MRS. C. K. EMERY,
3112 Ashlyn St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
DIVINITY PIE

One and three-fourths cups evaporated milk.
One-half cup granulated sugar.
Two teaspoons vanilla.
Few grains of salt.
One-half cup shredded cocoanut or one-third cup sliced and blanched almonds.
Three egg whites.
Blend sugar and flour and add to milk. Next add vanilla, salt and cocoanut or almonds. Stir until sugar is all dissolved, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour mixture into an unbaked pie shell and bake for about 50 minutes, or until it has risen high or is well browned and feels firm when shaken. A deep 10-inch pan should be used for this pie.

MRS. SUZANNE HAMILTON,
43 Natchez St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
CANNED ORANGES AND PEARS

One peck of bartlett pears.
Eight seedless oranges.
Eight cups of sugar.
Eight cups of water.
Six cloves.

Pare and halve, also core the pears. Wash the oranges and slice, getting about six or eight slices to an orange. Put sugar and water mixed together on fire, let come to a boil, add cloves and pear halves, let cook for 15 or 20 minutes, then add sliced oranges and let cook till you can pierce pear with a fork. Then place jars in pan of hot water, put pears in jar also. Put three slices of orange to a pint jar and five or six slices to a quart jar. Then cover with the syrup and seal. It makes a delicious breakfast fruit or dinner dessert.

MRS. EMMA STEFAN,
Brier Hill, Pa.
CANNED SAUERKRAUT

Shred cabbage on slaw cutter, put in wooden bowl, salt to taste. Take the handle of a wooden potato masher and pound down in glass jars (sterilized) till the jar is full, and has plenty of juice. Then set in warm place with cover just set on top, till kraut is through bubbling. Then skim off the top and fill with a weak salt and water solution. Seal jars. Will keep a long time and is so much nicer than putting in crocks or barrels, and does not have a scum on top.

MRS. ELIZABETH KODISCH,
R. D. 1, Verona, Pa.
SWEDISH TEA RING

Two cups yeast.
One cup milk, scalded and cooled.
One cup lukewarm water.
One tablespoon sugar.
Seven cups sifted flour.
Six tablespoons shortening.
Half-cup sugar.
Three eggs.
Half-teaspoon salt.

Dissolve yeast and one tablespoon sugar in lukewarm liquid. Add three cups flour and beat until smooth. Add shortening and sugar, thoroughly creamed, and eggs beaten until light, remaining flour gradually, or enough to make a moderately soft dough, and salt. Turn on board, knead lightly. Place in greased bowl. Cover and set aside in a warm place to rise for about two hours. Roll out in oblong pieces one-fourth inch thick. Brush with melted butter. Sprinkle with brown sugar, raisins and cinnamon. Roll up lengthwise and place in a circle on a large, shallow greased pan or baking sheet. With scissors cut three-quarter-inch thick slices, almost through. Turn each slice partly on its side, pointing away from center. This gives effect of a many-pointed star, and shows different layers with filling. Cover and let rise one hour, or until light, and bake in hot oven 25 minutes. Just before putting in oven, glaze with egg diluted with milk. Ice while hot with plain frosting.

MRS. EDNA K. FREED,
324 Ninth St., Connellsville, Pa.
PIMENTO-CHEESE SOUFFLE

One tablespoon butter.
Half-cup milk.
Pinch salt and pepper.
Three eggs beaten separately.

Blend flour and butter over low flame, adding milk gradually. Stir until smooth. Add cheese and seasoning. Remove from fire and stir into mixture beaten egg yolks, then fold in stiffly-beaten whites.

Bake in greased baking dish or ramekins. Will double in bulk. Serve at once.

MRS. VAL. HOHMAN,
3925 Evergreen Rd., Pittsburgh.

One cup butter.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Four eggs.
Three cups flour.
One teaspoon soda.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One cup milk.
Any kind of spices you may desire, spiced to suit taste.

Babette's News

This season the fashion problem is as easy as pie to solve. Take a skirt. Add a sweater. Result: one keen sports ensemble. Subtract the sweater. Add a crepe blouse. Result: a luncheon-date outfit. Endless possibilities. And think of the fun you'll have . . . you individualists, who like to assemble your own! And think of the money you'll save . . . when a little adding and subtracting multiplies your wardrobe! Here are a few of the things you should look at in Sports Shop.

I'd be completely ostracized if I didn't start out with a Twin Set. Well, they are one of the brightest ideas that ever struck a designer. And the reason they haven't gone Last Round-up on us is because there are so many, ma-ny versions

The one sketched is called The Whitney—probably because it has a masculine, polo-ish look. The vertical rib knit is so true-to-life no one will guess your own two little hands didn't do the knitting. Brown, blue, Burgundy, green . . . with leather buttons. 5.95 the set.

You can't beat the good ol' shirtwaist style when it comes to plain, tailored chic! Vogue chose this blouse for a Smart Economy, so you know it is outstanding. The fabric is a sheer wool with a tiny, tiny vertical self-stripe. The buttons are of smoked pearl. The tailoring is irreproachable. In black, brown, and the brightest green I've ever seen . . . and liked! Priced 6.95.

This little darling is a cross between a sweater and a blouse. You'll like the graduated horizontal stripes (if your figure can stand 'em!) You'll like the bracelet neck and the elbow length sleeves and those cute candy-twist buttons. And you'll adore the colors: Dundee green with beige, chona brown with spice rose, navy with aster blue. The cost, 5.95.

Be Smartly Casual —or Casually Smart . . . that's the creed of our younger set. One of the reasons a suede jacket like this has become an Indispensable! The zipper opens at the bottom, and can be put together again even by such unmechanical fingers as mine. Dundee green, natural, brown, rum brown . . . for 7.95.

The touch of genius is easily recognized! You'd know, even without looking at the labels, that these blouses were designed by people who are Somebodys.
The one above, of a new crinkly Ripple Crepe, is an exact reproduction of one of Lucile Paray's models. Seems to me that neckline should be mighty becoming! And it's seldom you find a blouse like this for 3.50!

Yes—Vera Borea knows a thing or two about designing! Look at that high neckline, and the way that bow is "built in" on the shoulders! This blouse (another authentic reproduction) is also made of a new crinkly crepe. Priced 3.50.

And here's Schiaparelli's contribution . . . made of a sheer crepe with a swirling pattern. The neckline started out to be a cowl, but changed its mind under Schiaparelli inspiration. All three of these styles come in eggshell, black, brown, navy, sulphur, peachbloom, dove grey, rum and white. The price of this, too, is 3.50.

BOY STRUCK BY HIT-RUN DRIVER; STATE SLEUTH IN CRASH

HUMAN NEEDS PLEA MADE BY ROOSEVELT

Help Private Charity To Relieve Distress, He Urges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Every citizen today was called upon by President Roosevelt to support private charities relieving human distress.

His appeal from the White House last night opened the four weeks' mobilization for human needs under the direction of Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War.

Mr. Roosevelt said the government's promise to let no one starve was "predicated on the assumption" that every individual would "continue to do his or her part."

The President described those who would put all relief work on the government and "deny the civic responsibility of the individual" as "buck passers." He added:

"The overwhelming majority of the American people understand clearly that it is the first duty of the individual and the local community to do all they can to maintain relief and welfare; that it is then the obligation of the state government to supplement local efforts and that, finally, if all this put together is not sufficient, the federal government stands ready to help.

"I ask every citizen to give his or her support to the community chests and to other organizations that raise funds for the regular welfare services—bodies which express the instincts of charity, of humanity and neighborliness. They are an essential to the whole American scheme of life."

WELFARE FUND APPEALS SET

Two hundred members of the Welfare Fund were to meet today to take final action on its $2,800,000 budget for 1934. Appeals of 11 agencies whose appropriations have been reduced were to be heard.

The agencies represented are the Federation of Social Agencies, Pittsburgh Housing Association, Boy Scouts, Family Society of Allegheny County, Conference of Catholic Charities, Goodwill Industries, Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, McKeesport Y. M. C. A., Catholic Boy Welfare Bureau and the Brashear Settlement.

Take Out Your War Insurance Now, Says 'Bugs'

—By ARTHUR (Bugs) BAER—

Lloyds, of London, is giving two-to-one odds that a European war will bust loose in 18 months.

In his Friday address President Roosevelt said we could only prevent wars by education.

So bet with Lloyds and pay your way through college.

You will get the education and the war on one diploma.

Lloyds is not noted for being the world's leading philanthropist. Those London insurance boys ain't giving away money. When they figure the odds on anything you can bet there is something brewing and it ain't beer.

If you think Lloyds is wrong, then one will get you two.

NINTH WARD HIT IN RECOUNT

Alleged vote discrepancies in the Fourth District, Ninth Ward, home of Battalion Fire Chief Lou Conley, who is also Republican ward chairman, were under fire before the recount board today.

Frank Benetz, judge of election, and Matthew Dollinger and John Subosic, inspectors, were questioned by Judges S. H. Gardner and T. M. Marshall regarding duplications on the vote list.

The list revealed 33 duplications among the 584 names. Two hundred and forty-four persons needed assistance in marking ballots, the hearing developed. James Murphy aided 48 persons. Benetz said he knew Murphy lived in the district but didn't know much about him.

Most of the alleged irregularities were in connection with the fight for alderman. Frank T. Halloran, on the face of the returns, won the Republican nomination by approximately 800 votes over John L. Houlihan.

The court will certify its findings to District Attorney A. T. Parks.

NEW SUPPORT GIVEN M'NAIR

In a statement issued by Democratic headquarters today, Cornelius D. Scully, chairman of the campaign for William N. McNair for mayor, said he had secured the promise of Grant Curry to support McNair and the Democratic councilmanic ticket.

Mr. Curry, who is out of the city, gave his pledge over the telephone, Mr. Scully said. Mr. Curry is reported as urging independents of all political factions to back the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Curry is a member of the Citizens League, the executive committee of which last week declined to make any official indorsement for mayor.

POLICE SHAKEUP LOOMS HERE

A police shakeup "for the good of the service" was being planned today. A list of transfers was in the hands of Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., according to Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide.

Denny denied that Capt. Nuncie Marino would be sent back to East Liberty from Oakland. The report had it that Marino would be able to embarrass former Police Magistrate Charles F. Papale, who has gone Democratic.

In the primary election Papale swung a substantial vote away from Mayor Herron to William N. McNair, the Democratic candidate.

Downtown Window Broken by Thieves

Shattered by a brick, the display window of Shook and Kaufman, jewelers, 950 Liberty avenue, was robbed early this morning of jewelry and watches said to be valued at $200. The brick still lay in the window when the broken glass was discovered by a newsboy.

VOTE MACHINE INVESTIGATION ENDS TODAY

Harris Probe Findings Being Tabulated for Commissioners

The three-week investigation of the failure of the voting machines during the primary election will end today after a detailed examination of two of the machines by the Harris investigating committee.

B. B. Sklar, voting machine expert; Mrs. J. O. Miller and her sister, Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, of the League of Women Voters, will be given an opportunity to give any statements they care to make.

The committee is now tabulating the evidence presented by bureau employes and election board officials in an effort to have their return ready for the County Commissioners by Wednesday. The committee sought to fix responsibility for the breakdown and suggest means to prevent a repetition when the machines are used again.

A report of the investigation made by a committee appointed by Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish also is expected the latter part of the week.

MARTIN HAILS VICTORY MARCH

HARRISBURG, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—In the words of Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, the party's tickets are "marching to victory" all over Pennsylvania.

In letters to county chairmen, he said "the party spirit is fine," continuing:

"Moreover, men and women generally are showing they do not intend to jeopardize their right to vote in the Republican primary next spring by cutting tickets."

Last week, he urged chairmen to caution voters that only by supporting a majority of the Republican candidates next month could they guarantee their right to support the party in next year's gubernatorial and senatorial elections.

SPIRIT AID SEEN FOR ROOSEVELT

The spirits of Washington and Lincoln directed President Roosevelt in organizing the New Deal, according to Joseph Whitwell, president of the National Spiritualist Association, which opens its annual convention in the William Penn Hotel today. He said in part:

"The President may not be consciously psychic, he may be sincere in his belief that his ideas are his own, but all the same he is being guided in his recovery program by spirits who know what is best for the country."

A banquet and dance tonight will officially open the convention. Business sessions will be held daily during the week. At public evening meetings there will be lectures and demonstrations of psychic phenomena.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Oct. 16.

So Germany left the League. Well, we can't criticize. We never even went in. The poor old league never had a chance. For it had no power.

Will Rogers

It tried to keep everybody good by having 'em sign a pledge, (but there was nothing they could do to you if you broke the pledge). They didn't need guns to make the league a real success. An economic boycott against any nation by all the others would have done the trick.

Let the world quit trading with Japan and China will have Manchuria back by breakfast time. Nations will give up their lives (even cheer about it), they will give up their money in order to give up their lives, but to ask one to give up their trade to prevent a war . . . well, that has never been done.

Yours, WILL

MITZIE COMES TO TAKE JIGGS' PLACE

City's Only Singing And Dancing Dog Dead

Jiggs is dead, but Mitzie has come to take his place.

Jiggs was a white bulldog whose picture was in the paper more times than many a Metropolitan Opera star. And perhaps he had a right to it because he was Pittsburgh's only known singing and dancing dog. His master and mistress, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kilpatrick, of 5618 Harvard street, more than once said:

"That dog sometimes has more sense than a person."

At such times Jiggs pricked up his ears and gave voice to musical notes. A few weeks ago he died. The Kilpatricks couldn't think of getting another dog to take his place.

That is, until Mrs. Katherine Fleckhahn, of 5911 Broad street, read of Jiggs' death and asked them to consider one of her thoroughbred Boston terriers.

When Kilpatrick, who is a patrol driver for the Pittsburgh Police Department, and his wife saw Mitzie they were won by her tail wagging. And now Mitzie is trying her hardest to fill the shoes of Jiggs. With only a few lessons she already is able to catch a rubber ball, and she may break into song almost any time.

Rushed to Hospital, Wife Denies Taking Poison

Mrs. Anna Bell, 35, of 257 Eighth avenue, West Homestead, is in good health today and not because West Homestead police tried to save her life.

The police rushed to her home yesterday when informed by her husband, Frank, Jr., that she had taken poison.

Finding her unconscious, they took her to the Homestead Hospital, where she denied having taken poison, and refused to stay.

Her husband said that when he tried to stop her taking the poison she threw the contents of the bottle in his face.

Reed Spurns Invitation To Turner Dinner

Senator David A. Reed, Republican, has declined an invitation to attend a dinner here October 28, honoring William M. Turner, Democrat and Pittsburgh's new postmaster.

Reed declined the invitation in a letter to T. G. Cruse, chairman of the committee, as a protest against what he terms the "spoils system."

In his letter, Reed said:

"I am grateful to you personally for the invitation, but I could not possibly accept it because I feel that the dismissal of Postmaster Anderson in the middle of his term was brutal and indefensible.

"I thought that we had gotten away from the spoils system in the United States and I know that I myself disturbed no Democratic appointee until the expiration of his full term.

"The action of the present administration in removing the postmasters at Pittsburgh, Wilkes-Barre, New Castle and other cities in Pennsylvania, is resented deeply by all thinking citizens, including many Democrats.

"I don't know Mr. Turner and have nothing against him personally, the manner of his appointment is such that I could not participate in felicitating him upon it."

STEEL LEADER PROTEST NRA RAIL COSTS

It is questionable whether a lower price on the government's rail contract can be justified under the higher production costs brought about by the NRA program, according to C. V. McKaig, vice president and general manager of sales of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Voicing the first note of protest against the government's attempt to cut down the price of rails and at the same time increase the expenses of the railmakers, McKaig says:

"Since July, labor rates have increased upwards of 15 per cent, prices of raw materials have advanced substantially, and now a lower price on rails has been requested. One of the purposes of the NRA is to assure reasonable returns to the manufacturer, and from this observation a lower price now would seem to defeat this purpose."

A request for bids on 844,000 tons of rails was made to the manufacturers recently by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation.

SEVERE LOSSES

McKaig points out the severe losses met by the steel industry, that the country's rail mills have an annual capacity of 3,500,000 tons while in 1932 sales fell to slightly over 200,000 tons, and estimates the steel industry's contribution to the NRA largely in the form of increased wages at $100,000,000 annually.

In the light of these facts, he states, the decision of the manufacturers regarding a lower rail price will be watched with interest.

GROSS TON BASIS

Rails are sold on a gross ton basis, McKaig further points out, which means that the buyer gets 2,240 pounds in a ton compared with 2,000 pounds in a purchase of bars, shapes or plates.

A $40 a ton price of rails is equivalent to $35.70 a net ton, and compares with a price on merchant bars of similar grade to the rails of $45 a net ton. Exacting requirements as to quality of rails, requiring the rolling of only the best part of the ingot, add to rail costs, he said.

SOCIETY WOMAN FIGHTS BALM

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, today opened her defense in the $1,000,000 alienation of affections suit filed in Superior Court against her by Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett, charging theft of the love of Howard Willett.

Both principals, prominent socially, were present with their attorneys when Dudley Crafts Watson, art lecturer, took the stand before Notary Public Stella Roper in suburban Waukegan to make depositions to be used in the trial later.

Miss Alice Greenacre, council for Mrs. Hall, lost no time in bringing the testimony around to a pilgrimage in which Willett was a member of the Watson party to Mexico City in 1932. Watson denied there was evidence of over-friendliness between Mrs. Willett and Edmund Harris, a photographer, who accompanied the tour.

Watson admitted, however, that Harris was in Mrs. Willett's room in the Roosevelt Hotel in Mexico City once, but said it occurred only when Mrs. Willett had invited the entire party there for cocktails. On one occasion, the witness said, the couple attended a bull fight together.

CRAWFORD CASE REVIEW DENIED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The Supreme Court today denied the petition of George Crawford, Negro, for review of his fight in lower courts to avoid extradition to Virginia to face a murder charge on the ground that Negroes are barred from juries in that state.

Crawford will now be removed to Loudon County, Va., for trial.

The Crawford case attracted nationwide attention when Federal Judge Lowell in Boston refused to extradite him to Virginia on the ground that Virginia discriminated against Negroes for jury service.

In a burst of anger against Judge Lowell, Representative Smith (Dem.), of Virginia, instituted impeachment proceedings in the House, which now are being investigated by a judiciary sub-committee.

Crawford was indicted on a charge of murdering Mrs. Agnes B. Ilsley, wealthy sportswoman, and her maid, Nina Buchner, on the Ilsley estate near Middleburg, Va. The indictment was returned January 17, 1933.

Following Crawford's capture in Boston, Virginia asked to have him returned for trial. Judge Lowell refused extradition, but the Federal Circuit Court reversed him.

BISMARCK, N. D., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Gov. William Langer announced today he would issue a proclamation this afternoon declaring an embargo on spring wheat shipments from North Dakota in an effort to raise prices and center attention on the farmers' plight.

The Governor said the final draft of the proclamation was prepared for issuance under a 1933 legislative act authorizing an embargo on farm products produced in the state when prices fell below the cost of production.

The law gives the Governor power to use national guardsmen, if he deems this necessary, to enforce his order, which may by law continue in effect indefinitely.

MAN RISKS LIFE TO TEST AIR OF STRATOSPHERE

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—All preparations were completed today for a dramatic test in which an adventurous young American will attempt to prove that a human being can live under atmospheric conditions similar to those in the stratosphere.

He is Mark E. Ridge, 28-year-old citizen of the United States, who is determined to prove he can ascend into the stratosphere in an open basket attached to a balloon.

Although refused aid by the United States Navy Department and warned he is risking his life, Ridge, who recently arrived here, has gained the support of J. B. S. Haldane, famous British scientist.

Wednesday, under direction of Sir Robert Davis, British scientist, Ridge will make the test which, if he survives, will demonstrate life can be sustained at an air pressure so low as to form a virtual vacuum.

A special airtight suit has been made for Ridge which, he hopes, will enable him to survive in a decompression chamber in which the atmosphere will simulate that found nearly 20 miles above the earth.

Haldane is supervising all arrangements for the test, after which, if it is successful, Ridge will return to America to prepare for the proposed balloon ascent.

A group of scientists will watch the test, including respiratory experts and deep diving and high flying authorities.

Haldane has decided that Ridge will remain in the decompression chamber for about four hours, since when he ascends into the stratosphere he plans to remain aloft for about 10 hours.

NUDIST COLONY AROUSES IRE OF INDIANA

Universal Service.

KENTLAND, Ind., Oct. 16.—Chicago's most celebrated colony of nudism, flourishing on a farm near here, is to feel the wrath of Indiana authorities today when Philip Lutz, Jr., attorney general, appears in court here with a petition for an injunction to "abate the nudist colony nuisance."

Attorney General Lutz announced that Miss Agnes Molter, prosecuting attorney of Newton County, in which the nudist camp is located, had appealed to him to institute action against the followers of nudism.

This colony is operated by Alois Knapp, a Chicago lawyer, and is patronized almost exclusively by Chicago men and women who journey to the rustic scenes of Northern Indiana, abandon their clothing and romp and play as they believe nature intended they should.

In announcing his plans for action against the colony, Attorney General Lutz said he had sent two investigators to spend the week-end at the colony to gather evidence.

"Farmers have been complaining that naked women come up to their houses to buy food, and that both nude men and women stroll along the highway in plain view," the Attorney General said.

"I regard the matter so important that I am going to Kentland to see for myself," Mr. Lutz declared.

The Attorney General said he expects to gather many of the spicy details customarily associated with nudism and that he will incorporate these items in his complaint for an injunction.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

ARE you one of the many people who would like to know when they are going to die and what will cause death? If you are, science cannot yet answer the first question definitely. But it is now able to make a fairly good guess at the answer to the second question.

Facts assembled through research make it possible to forecast how long one is likely to live. These figures also divulge with considerable definiteness what the chances are of dying of a particular malady.

Those who want to find out which particular disease may usher them into the next world can do so easily. Details are explained in an unusually informative article regarding fatal ailments which appears—next Sunday—in The American Weekly.

SEEK U. S. FUNDS FOR TWO PITT BUILDINGS

As a result of conferences with Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, Congressman Henry Ellenbogen will ask the Federal Public Works Administration for outright grants of 30 per cent of the funds to complete the Cathedral of Learning, he announced last night. In addition to the Cathedral, aid will be sought for erecting a $1,000,000 dormitory for students.

The sums will total more than $700,000. The remainder of the costs of the two projects, estimated at $1,500,000, would be in loans from the Public Works Administration. If the university is able to obtain further contributions locally, the loans would be considerably reduced.

The proposed dormitory would be on a plot surrounding the Cathedral and facing Fifth avenue. Indebtedness incurred in building it would be paid off by income from students.

WITNESS TELLS OF PLANE BLAST

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—Discovery of a new witness to the mid-air explosion of a Transcontinental United Air Lines plane near Chesterton, Ind., today brought to light additional details of the mysterious crash that killed seven persons.

Federal Department of Justice agents questioned Francis Wiseman, a farmer believed to be the only person who saw the actual explosion which investigators say was caused by high explosives aboard the plane. Wiseman said the forward part of the plane skyrocketed several hundred feet in the air when the tail portion was ripped away.

A fractured arm prevented his appearance at the inquest to tell his story, Wiseman said. He explained:

"The plane was flying about 2,000 feet high. While I was watching there was a terrific blast and flashes of fire. The tail part of the ship floated away and the front section shot up in the air several hundred feet like a skyrocket."

Investigators checking the plane's flight were quoted as saying that nitroglycerin was the probable source of the explosion.

M'KEE REFUTES JEWISH ATTACK

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The question of anti-Semitism stirred the three-cornered struggle for the mayoralty to something approaching frenzy today.

Joseph V. McKee, accused of criticizing the ethics of Jewish school children in an article written in 1915, denied it and struck back at his fusion opponent, Fiorello H. La Guardia. McKee said:

"Mr. La Guardia has deliberately, viciously and for self gain brought the religious question into this campaign by misinterpreting the intent and spirit of a single paragraph in an article written almost 20 years ago."

His denial that any attack on Jews "was made or intended" followed a demand by Samuel Untermyer, lawyer, that McKee, the Recovery party candidate for Mayor, explain.

Nathan Straus, Jr., Recovery party candidate for aldermanic president and himself a Jew, said there is no man in the country "more completely free from racial or religious intolerance" than McKee.

PANTHERS IMPRESSIVE IN FIRST CLICKING

Though it was a disappointing Navy team that Pitt defeated Saturday, too lacking in weight and other football essentials to have any business on the field with an eleven of the caliber of the Panthers, the game served to give the first line of the season on what the Panthers can do when aroused. That 34-to-6 rout represented the biggest score rolled up against a Navy outfit since Michigan beat the Tars 54 to 0 in 1925, and in accomplishing it the Panthers demonstrated that spirit was all that they had needed to make them one of the great teams of the year.

Bob Hogan

Bob Hogan may have wound up a fine exhibition by doing something contrary to instructions, as was indicated by the lecture he received when suddenly yanked, but there can be no denying that once he got down to business he made the Pitt machine click for the first time this fall. And the evidence of what the Panthers can do when the steam is turned on must have been very comforting and encouraging to Panther supporters, with the big games just around the corner.

The exhibition of rushing power, passing skill and open-field speed was not confined to Weinstock, O'Dell and the other brilliant regulars, for the replacements were equally impressive with Heinie Weisenbaugh and Hubert Randour, the latter a sophomore to be watched, standing out. The Panthers may have lacked luster in their first two games, but they needed only to be aroused. They're in stride now, and their stock has gone up many points for those next two big games against Minnesota and Notre Dame.

XAVIER SCARE OUGHT TO HELP TARTANS

Carnegie Tech's close call from being held to a scoreless tie by Xavier in Cincinnati was a duplicate of Pitt's experience in the opening tilt with W. & J. It was a case of over-confident Tartans being taken by surprise by a supposedly inferior eleven that happened to be primed for the occasion and full of the same spirit that Wash-Jeff showed here against the Panthers.

Coach Howard Harpster had warned his players against just such a possibility, fearing that their easy victory over Temple and Pop Warner might give them an exaggerated idea of their own strength. No doubt that narrow escape with a 3-to-0 win will have more effect on the Tartans than did Harp's lectures. It ought to do the Carnegie gridders a world of good and put them in the right mood for their preparations for the big battle with Notre Dame on Saturday.

GRIFF'S "YOUNG" CLUB AVERAGES 31 YEARS

Clark Griffith may know enough about his club and its league in other directions to warrant his expressed confidence that the Senators will repeat for the American League pennant next year. But when, in giving his reasons for anticipating another flag, he refers to the Washington outfit as a "young" club, fandom at large may be pardoned for wondering how he figures it.

Of the regular catchers, Sewell is 33 and Berg is 31. In the pitching department, before another season arrives, White-

POOR BLOCKING HURT TECH —HARPSTER

By Howard Harpster

Carnegie Tech Football Coach
All-America Quarterback, 1928

Because of Carnegie Tech's impressive victory over Temple University in the opening game a week ago, many people were surprised to hear of my team's narrow escape at the hands of Xavier at Cincinnati, last Saturday, when we eked out a last-quarter 3-to-0 victory. Without wishing to appear in an "I told you so" role, the game turned out to be just the type of battle I had anticipated and predicted.

Howard Harpster

On the schedule arranged for this season, there was only one opponent in the lot which didn't have a big name in football. This opponent was Xavier and the game was supposedly our "breather." Our team, which had heard from various sources about this letdown game, proceeded to disregard our many warnings during the week, and refused to take the battle seriously. After we arrived in Cincinnati and the boys found out that Xavier really meant business, they tried to set themselves for the game, but it was too late.

FIELD GOAL SAVES DAY

Although there never was any difficulty in keeping Xavier from scoring, it developed early in the first quarter that our opposition was smashing up the Tech plays and covering the pass receivers so well that it was doubtful if we would score. A beautiful placement kick by Capt. Stewart from the 25-yard line on the third play of the final quarter gave Carnegie the three points necessary for victory.

Xavier never had possession of the ball inside of the Tech 40-yard line, and was held to two first downs, as the Tech team played well defensively. But on the offense it was a different story. Our team floundered around helplessly. Time after time the Xavier linemen would stop the plays at the scrimmage line, and on most of the end runs the ball carrier was stopped behind the line.

BLOCKING IS POOR

The blocking of the Tech team was as poor as I have seen in a college game, and the ball carrier was smothered under by three or four tacklers on almost every play as interferers failed to clear the way. I believe the reason for our poor blocking was that our opponents were held lightly by many of our players, who were not prepared for the vicious play of the entire Xavier team.

With Notre Dame as our next opponent, next Saturday, this attitude hardly will prevail, and I look for a great improvement in our offensive play in this game.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF LAST SATURDAY: LIFELONG INSOMNIA—Lherbette, who was born in 1791, suffered a fractured skull on January 21, 1793, when the stand collapsed on which the nurse carrying him was watching the execution procession of King Louis XVI, of France. He was operated on and recovered, but for 71 years following his recovery until his death in 1864 he never slept a wink. This did not prevent him from becoming a brilliant French lawyer, notary and statesman. It is believed that the operators removed a portion of the brain and that this was responsible for his sleeplessness.

TOMORROW: THE CENTENARIAN'S NEW TEETH

LOCAL VARSITY TEAMS REMAIN UNBEATEN

By JESS CARVER

If the good and big team really is good and big, it will, nine times out of 10, beat the good little team, no matter how good the little team may be. This old football axiom has been given a pretty fair workout so far this season and has stood up right well.

Saturday, Pitt crashed its way to the top of the Eastern gridiron rankings by pummeling a good but oh, so little, Navy eleven all over the Pitt Stadium turf. The powerful Panthers, with more weight and as much, if not more, speed, was slow enough to warm to its work, but a ball game lasts 60 minutes and the touchdown in the last minute of play counts as much as the one scored in the first quarter. The 34 to 6 trimming handed the Navy did not serve to reflect on the Middies football powers, but rather, demonstrated very clearly that Dr. Jock Sutherland has a great eleven in the making.

PITT ON TOP

Today its Southern California on the West Coast (when has it been otherwise?), Michigan and Kansas in the Middle West and Pitt, Fordham and Colgate and possibly Army in the East. Pitt out in front with the most impressive record.

The Tars bit off a trifle more than they could chew (and Tars usually are fair to middlin' chewers, too) in attempting to match reserve strength with the Panthers. The Pitt varsity would have been good enough to have slaughtered the Middie varsity if the starting elevens had remained in action throughout, but when Hub Randour, Rector and Shedlosky tore into things, the best replacements Coach Rip Miller had available were not good enough. Randour gave a fine exhibition of running, and looks like a comer if ever there was one.

The Panthers came out of the game in fine shape physically, which is just as well, for they have a bruising encounter on the list for this week, against Minnesota at Minneapolis. Minnesota hardly figured to take the Panthers, but they'll have almost as great a weight advantage as Pitt held over the Navy and it will be a thumping ball game—the very worst sort for a team to play the week before meeting Notre Dame.

TARTANS SURPRISED

Tech's Tartans today know how the Panthers felt after the Wash-Jeff game. The Skibos went into the game against Xavier in Cincinnati figuring it was safely "in" before the opening kickoff and were fortunate to pull out with a last quarter field goal victory. With the Notre Dame game

'THEY ALL DO IT,' EXCUSE FOR HORSE 'DOPING'

NO GUILT FELT BY NARCOTICS DISPENSERS

CHAPTER VI

Horse Doping

By FRANK G. MENKE

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—When Harry Anslinger, Commissioner of Narcotics, determined to learn about illicit drug traffic in and around race tracks of the United States, he deputized Ralph H. Oyler, veteran of more than 18 years' warfare against narcotic law violators, as director of the expedition. Oyler promptly chose two men from among the government agents who might best pose as "gypsy horsemen," "touts" or "roustabouts" and the campaign was launched at Sportman's Park (Chicago).

Ralph Oyler

These agents sauntered into the track one morning and began circulating among the barns. Little attention was paid to them. No questions were asked. They were accepted, without challenge, by the "fraternity." They walked around among the barns, peered into stalls, petted horses, admired them—no one was suspicious. When occasion demanded, they introduced themselves as country horsemen looking for bargains among the cheaper animals—and were regarded as such.

Dope Easily Bought

They found an easy comradeship within the race track. They heard stable hands speaking openly about how this betting coup was scored with a "doped horse" and how that cleanup was planned with another, through the medium of narcotic influence. No one was secretive about the "doctoring."

The government agents, feigning ignorance concerning the power of drugs to stimulate horses to greater speed were laughed at by stable hands, who remarked:

"Say, you birds must have been campaigning on your own farm if you don't know about dope."

The agents, making inquiry as to where they could get such stuff, were advised that dealers, with good supplies, made regular selling appearances at the tracks. At one race course, the agents "confessed" they were addicts, had been having some difficulty getting drugs for themselves, and asked if they could get drugs for their own needs, as well as for the horses for which they were "bargaining."

One conscientious Negro advised:

"You best be careful. Don't you go to taking the horse tonic."

"Isn't it all the same?"

"Lawsy, no. All de difference in de world. If you is taking morphine, you better be sure you get what is for de humans. De stuff dey gives horses is heroin, and dat would near kill you if you took it thinking it was morphine, it's dat strong. If you is taking 'coke' you better tell the fellows dat it am for you, and not for horses, because what dey sell for folks is different. Dey ain't so particular about how strong dat 'coke' is dey give horses, and if you took what dey make up for horses it maybe kill you."

High Proof Drugs

The agents soon made contact with the peddlers. They made their "buys" of material for humans, and also for horses. The rates were bargains, as compared with prices in other markets. When peddlers failed to arrive, the agents, for a small remuneration, hired stable hands to serve as messengers and fill orders, having learned that these stable men were regular "dope runners" for big dealers.

Chemical analysis made of the morphine, heroin and cocaine purchased at different tracks by the narcotic men showed a greater quantity of the pure drug than usually can be obtained elsewhere at even higher prices. Whereas heroin picked up in other markets tested about 10 per cent real drug, and 90 per cent "filler," that which was sold at the tracks scaled as high as 25 per cent heroin.

The same situation was true with reference to morphine and cocaine.

When Commissioner Anslinger studied reports concerning conditions at Sportsman's Park, he decided against any immediate raid there. To have "pulled" one would have warned drug dealers and horse dopers at other tracks and nullified a rather nationwide investigation.

"They All Do It"

They moved from Illinois to Louisiana, where they spent about six weeks. From Louisiana they went to Florida and from Florida northward to Maryland, then westward, repeating their act at almost a dozen different tracks, and finding conditions either similar or worse than at Sportsman's Park.

Once when an agent, posing as a county fair horseman, expressed surprise over the practice of drugging horses, his auditor scoffed at his "ignorance," saying:

"What's the matter with you, man? Ain't you educated about horses? I been hearing you tell you had horses that ain't done any wining, and I don't wonder. Unless you get one of them world beaters like Man O'War or Equipoise, you can't expect to do any winning if you don't give your horse plenty of dope. That's how folks win races with cheap horses."

"But isn't it against the rules? Don't they say that anybody caught doping horses will be ruled off the turf?"

Rule Scoffed At

The other man laughed.

"Sure, it says that, but it don't mean a thing! Nobody comes around here to see what's happening. Everybody's giving stuff to horses, and if you get some ponies and don't 'hop' 'em, they won't ever win you any races. Don't worry none about that rule. You got to be caught before that rule is any good. And nobody's around trying to catch folks simply because they dope horses."

CLASS A RACE CUT TO FIVE CONTENDERS

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The unexpected elimination of Hurst High School and Burgettstown Union from the race for the class A championship of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League featured an otherwise quiet weekend in scholastic football circles.

Duquesne High School, coached by H. L. Parker, ruined Hurst's chances for the title by scoring a 7-0 victory over Harry Crum's Mt. Pleasant Township gridders, while Trinity High School, of Washington, assisted in reducing the field of class A contenders to five by holding Burgettstown Union to a deadlock.

FIVE STAY IN RACE

As a result of the elimination of Hurst and Burgettstown the class A field of contenders may be counted on the fingers of one hand. The survivors are Scott High, of North Braddock, coached by Johnny Reed; Butler High, directed by Regis Heinzer; Ambridge High, defending champion, and coached by Moe Rubenstein; California High, coached by Carl Aschman, and Monongahela High, tutored by Blair (Tuffy) McMillan.

Two of the five contenders are slated to clash later in the season when California and Monongahela battle in a Monongahela Valley Big Five fray.

Ambridge, making a bid for its second successive title, chalked up its fourteenth consecutive victory by disposing of Beaver Falls, 12-0.

ELIZABETH IN FRONT

Elizabeth High School, coached by Russell Byler, continues to head the parade in class B with five straight victories. East Huntingdon, Brownsville and Carmichaels are deadlocked for second place with three victories.

In the class AA division, New Castle moved into a tie with New Kensington for the top position by scoring a 13-0 victory over Washington. The two leaders each have scored a pair of victories. Jeannette and Greensburg both ushered in their double A campaign with triumphs.

In the City League, both sections of the race now are in the hands of undisputed leaders, with South pacing the field in Section I, while Carrick rules supreme in Section II.

SOUTH FACES TEST

Perry, making a bid to retain the City title, and Westinghouse, defending champion in Section I, both were involved in deadlocks last week.

FAVORITES COP ON SANDLOTS

Favorites came through almost without exception as the independent footballers played through a full schedule on district gridirons yestereday afternoon.

The Broadway Mounts continued their fine play by walloping the Millvale Amici, 26 to 0. Rox Rangers won over the Goose Goslins, 13 to 0; Aliquippa Indians defeated the Freedom eleven, 28 to 0; Snee nosed out the Brookline Merchants, 6 to 0; Irwin beat the North Braddock Merchants, 6 to 0, and Wilkinsburg downed the Portvue Quakers, 7 to 0, in major tussles.

The Cheerio team ran up the biggest point total of the day, and the only one to pass the 30 mark by crushing the Fifth Ward eleven, 63 to 0. Arsenal Ramblers and Monaca tied, 0-0; Rooney Reds beat Maplewood, 12 to 0; the Etna Sycamores drew with the Coraopolis Boyds, 0-0; C. J. McBrides nosed out the Glassport Odds, 13 to 12; J. J. Doyles beat St. Johns, 12 to 7; Knapils took the New Kensington Merchants, 12 to 2; Corpus Christi walloped the McKeesport Reynolds, 25 to 0 and the Mystic A. C. won over Universal, 6 to 0.

hill and Thomas will be 34 and Crowder will be 33; Stewart is 33, Russell 28 and Weaver 27. Of the infielders, Bluege is 33, Myer 30, Kuhel 27 and Cronin 26. In the outfield, without counting the 42-year-old Rice or the 31-year-old Harris, Goslin is 33, Manush 32, and Schulte 30. That makes the average age of the catchers, pitchers and three regular outfielders 32, of the infielders 29, and of the club as a whole, 31. The boys soon will be starting to shave. Hardly a young club, as baseball ages go.

MOST TEAMS FAIL AFTER LOSING SERIES

The record of past pennant winners that suffered defeat in the World Series does not offer much support for Griffith's opinion that the Senators will come through again in 1934. Of the defeated clubs in nine World Series immediately preceding the derby of 1933, only two were able to come back and win the pennant again in the following season. They were the Yankees after the series of 1926, and the Cardinals after the season of 1930. Of the defeated clubs in the 29 World Series prior to this year, only 10 were pennant repeaters in the succeeding campaigns. Defeat in the classic seems to take something out of most of them.

Clark Griffith

Griffith denies reports that a shake-up in the Washington club is contemplated. He says that, apart from expecting that some of the young pitchers bought during the late summer will help the slab staff, he means to stand pat, and predicts that next fall the Senators again will play the National League champions and this time defeat them.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM FOOTBALL CORNERS

If you think some Eastern football names are hard to pronounce, take a look at the handle on the left end of the University of Oklahoma team. He is an Indian and his tribal cognomen is Katcha-Le-Ka-Ta-He. However, for conveniece, his mates call him Sam Miller.

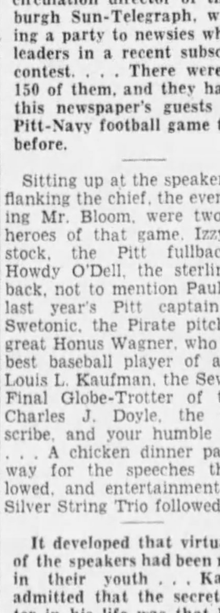
One of the hardest-working coaches is Wally Weber, assistant to Harry Kipke, at Michigan. He runs with the ball, tackles, blocks and comes out of most scrimmages with more bruises than the varsity.

Columbia freshmen appear to think that football is just a fair-weather game. On a rainy day recently, only seven men showed up for practice, and Coach Ralph Fury had to hunt up the rest and inform them that showers make no difference.

When the Brooklyn pros appear here in the first local Sunday game on November 12, Red Cagle will be seen wearing the same old No. 12 on his jersey. He has worn that number for 12 years on various teams.

BIG WRESTLERS AGAIN HEADING THIS WAY

The scheduling of a hearing at the local offices of the State Athletic Commission next Monday morning for wrestling promoters bent on reviving the mat business in this section, if possible, fits right in with the reported plans of the heads of the big grappling syndicate operating throughout the country. Despite previous financial disappointments in the staging of grunt-and-grimace acts in this city, some of the men handling wrestlers in the Jack Curley group still are viewing Pittsburgh through rose-colored glasses as a show ground.



Jack Curley

According to reports they have been active for some time shaping plans for another attempt to put over wrestling here, confident that they can yet make the fans of this district go for it. So if the way is opened, they'll be found all set to move right in and make a new try to coax out the customers with a series of bills featuring the country's best-known groaners, head-lockers, flying-tacklers, drop-kickers and what not.

SPORT VIGNETTES

This screed is going to be about newsboys . . . If you never were a happy newsboy, or never knew one, you've missed something in your life . . . If the subject doesn't interest you, you'll simply have to pass on to one of the other sports columns, but we think you'll sort of get into the mood of the thing, and, if you'll bear with us, you'll come across some big names in the sports world here.

It was in the Gold Room of the Fort Pitt Hotel yesterday afternoon . . . Ben W. Bloom, circulation director of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, was giving a party to newsies who were leaders in a recent subscription contest. . . . There were about 150 of them, and they had been this newspaper's guests at the Pitt-Navy football game the day before.

Sitting up at the speakers' table, flanking the chief, the ever-blooming Mr. Bloom, were two of the heroes of that game, Izzy Weinstock, the Pitt fullback, and Howdy O'Dell, the sterling halfback, not to mention Paul Reider, last year's Pitt captain; Steve Swetonic, the Pirate pitcher; the great Honus Wagner, who was the best baseball player of all time; Louis L. Kaufman, the Seven-Star Final Globe-Trotter of the air; Charles J. Doyle, the baseball scribe, and your humble servant. . . . A chicken dinner paved the way for the speeches that followed, and entertainment by the Silver String Trio followed.

It developed that virtually all of the speakers had been newsies in their youth . . . Kaufman admitted that the secret chapter in his life was that he had been a cheer leader at Penn State College . . . There was much free-given advice to the youngsters, along with considerable humor, and a grand scramble for autographs at the finish . . . Kaufman made up a group of impromptu yells and led the newsies in them, much to everybody's delight; O'Dell said he's been trying with might and main to make a good left halfback of himself for the Pitt Panthers and prays every night that he'll come through and keep his newly-won job; Weinstock and Reider were serious in stressing the need of diligent application in getting an education; Doyle entertained with baseball stories, and Honus panicked his listeners with his incredible baseball plays and reminiscenses.

You could tell the youngsters were having a good time—one of them even admitted he wouldn't mind being an outfielder if he could make the grade in baseball. . . . John Huddy, director of home delivery service for the circulation department, and Carl Angst, John Boyle and Harry Barker made good masters of ceremonies as they directed the affair in a quiet manner, and when it was all over the boys were given safe transportation to their homes . . . It was a party to be remembered, and none of the newsies enjoyed it more than the notables present.

Spotted here and there among the youthful guests were Frank Libbon and George Kelzer, of Sharpsburg; Stanley Smaglo and A. Tennebaum, of Oakland, John Shenchik, of Ambridge; Jim Kammerer, of Brookline; Parker Ireland, of Herron Hill; Alexander Magyon, of Donora; William Rabo, of Duquesne, and William Dempsey . . . All with smiling faces and happy hearts, joining in a rousing song at the finish. . . . Director Bloom, who served as toastmaster, wants any of the boys who didn't get the autographs they desired to write him and he'll see that they are accomodated.

And now just a word about that football game of Saturday. . . . Pitt looked like a real Pitt team for the first time this season, in its third game, and those tough games that loom ahead have lost a little of their terror for the local fans. . . . Come next month—ah, those Pitt teams in November!—and the development should reach a standard peak. . . . What happened to Carnegie Tech against Xavier at Cincinnati was nothing less than Coach Howard Harpster had been predicting all week. . . . He said Xavier would be tough, and everybody laughed at him. . . . And the Tartans were fortunate to eke out a 3-0 victory. . . . As for those Duquesne Dukes, they turned in their fifth straight victory on Friday night, and, if anyone tries to tell you they are not just about the best team Duquesne ever has had, you have our permission to tell him he's a trifle balmy.—HARRY KECK.

Dr. S. R. Haythorne, of Stanton Heights, sank his tee shot on the 184-yard No. 6 hole of his home links yesterday to record his first hole in one. His shot hit a stone and rebounded into the cup.

PACKERS ROUT PIRATES BY 47-0 SCORE

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Green Bay Packers held a field day at the expense of the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, scoring seven touchdowns to win, 47 to 0, in a National Professional Football League game.

At the end of the first half, the Pirates were trailing, 27 to 0. Green Bay added two more touchdowns in the third quarter and another in the fourth. Green Bay completed 10 out of 10 passes for a total of 113 yards. The lineup:

BEARS BEAT CARDS

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Chicago Bears, last year's professional football champions, yesterday defeated the Chicago Cardinals, local rivals, by a score of 12 to 9, before a crowd of about 12,000 at Wrigley Field.

The Cardinals, making this year's debut on home ground, outplayed the Bears in the first half, scoring all of their nine points in the second quarter.

REDSKINS BEATEN

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The right arm and right leg of Press Presnell provided the Portsmouth Spartans with a 13-0 victory over the Boston Redskins before 20,000 at Fenway Park yesterday.

Presnell threw a 45-yard forward pass to John Cavosie, his left end, for the Spartans' touchdown in the second period, place-kicked the extra point and then booted over two field goals in the third period, when the Redskins stopped Spartan advances inside their 10-yard line.

EASY FOR GIANTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The New York Giants threw passes all over the Polo Grounds and defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 56 to 0, to take the lead in the eastern division of the National Professional Football League yesterday.

BROOKLYN VICTOR

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The combination of Benny Friedman and Shipwreck Kelly proved too much yesterday for the Cincinnati Reds, of the National Professional League, as the Brooklyn Dodgers won by 27-0.

PANTHERS TAKE LEAD IN EAST

a week off, the Techs probably did not open up to any extent, and took few chances, but a team than can beat Temple as easily as did the Skibos one week should be able to nail an eleven of the caliber of the Ohioans by more than a field goal

When the Tartans beat Xavier Saturday, assuming their game was over some minutes after the Pitt-Navy affair, it marked the tenth victory of the season for Pittsburgh varsities. The Pitts made it nine against Navy and Friday night, the Dukes recorded their ninth by whipping Western Maryland. Ten wins out of as many starts is right noble football ing for one town and local folks may well be proud of their college gridders.

The Tartans and Panthers haven't the spotlight all to themselves this week when it comes to taking on tough opponents. The Dukes have Detroit Uiversity's Titans to face Friday in what promises to be a busy evening.

D.-E. POWERFUL

Save that Davis Elkins and Grove City won by more decisive margins than was to be expected, tri-state district varsities played according to form over the week-end. Davis Elkins was too fast and has too diversified and tricky an attack for West Virginia Wesleyan, and won 27 to 6 over the Bobcats, for the Hurricane's fifth consecutive triumph of the season. Grove City fooled them all by turning on the power spigot against Edinboro, winning 40 to 0.

Geneva beat Westminster Friday night, 20 to 0, and on Saturday Waynesburg walloped Bethany; St. Vincent took over Mt. St. Mary's, 14 to 0; Indiana Teachers walloped Bloomsburg, 25 to 7, and Slippery Rock upset Thiel, 12 to 0.

N. Y. U., Fordham, F. & M. Stars Hurt

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Three football stars today were lost to as many teams in the East as a result of injuries suffered in games Saturday.

Harry Temple, of Altoona, Pa., captain and fullback of the New York U. eleven, suffered a brain concussion in the Violet's game with Lafayette, and will be out for the season. Omar Cannon, F. & M. guard, suffered a fracture of the transverse process of the lumbar vertebrae in the game with Penn, and George Fenton, of Fordham, suffered a broken leg in the game with West Virginia. Neither will return to the gridiron this fall.

CARL HUBBELL WINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Carl Hubbell still is making his bid for headlines. The New York Giants' pitching hero defied the Bay Parkways against the Bushwicks in a semi-pro tilt here yesterday and won, 6 to 3. Hal Schumacher, another World Series luminary, was not so fortunate, losing for the Parkways in the nightcap, 3 to 1.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

BUSINESS KEEL EVEN DESPITE PESSIMISM

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—In spite of the recurrent waves of pessimism, business in the United States continues on an even keel, with industrial production lower than in July.

Mr. Rukeyser

The statistical picture is mixed, yet it reflects underlying stability. The cost of living was 1.3 per cent greater in September than in August, and with prices higher, retail sales, though continuing to gain as compared with the corresponding period a year ago, slumped markedly in the rate of increase.

The strike epidemic is still a deterrent to business, with its adverse effects especially perceptible in the coal and automobile districts.

ADVICE TO LABOR

Sensible advice was given to labor, following the speeches by President Roosevelt and Gen. Johnson, by Business Week, which concluded:

"Organized labor can do itself no greater disservice than to retard business recovery at the present critical stage, and they are not true friends of labor who give it other advice.

"Labor stands to gain 10 times more from business recovery than from winning fights over recognition and such issues at this juncture. Nor, to put on the lowest of practical terms, is it even clever tactics to fight now. Few industries are running at capacity, few are earning profits. Many demands which seem excessive now will not when business again is profitable."

ORTHODOX METHODS SEEN

The announcement of Treasury plans for calling for redemption almost $1,900,000,000 of fourth Liberty 4¼s was interpreted as an indication that the administration would proceed in a monetary way with due respect for orthodox views.

Though this was superficially regarded in speculative Wall street as a rejection of inflation, it really only indicated that the administration would make a strenuous effort to satisfy the need for reflation in the most orthodox ways, presumably, through a stimulated expansion of bank credit.

Yet evidently Washington is not to content itself with mere cheer leading among the banks. Plans are growing for additional direct injection of federal funds into specific situations. The most promising tentative plan had to do with arrangements for thawing out frozen deposits in the weaker closed banks. Another step in the right direction was the proposal for federal aid in financing slum removal projects.

PACKERS HERE SURPASSING EUROPE

In a test of excellence in making sausage, pudding, meat loaves and other such delicacies, Pittsburgh probably could rank along with the noted European packing houses.

At the William Zoller Company, Spring Garden avenue, the meat chefs have equaled in mixing and production such famous sausage makers as Theraus, of Lyons, France, and Bissingen on the Rhine, Germany.

In several departments the Zoller Company even surpasses the European methods.

PLANTS CLEAN

For instance, one of the first requirements is cleanliness and sanitation as healthful meats cannot be prepared in unsanitarily operated food kitchens. Our American method of refrigeration is also one of the advantage points.

The use of proper tools is another important requisite. The knives, grinders, mixers, stuffers and kettles at the Zoller Packing Company are the latest and most scientific to be found.

STOCKS IMPORTANT

With these appliances in the hands of men and women trained for years in the art of boning, trimming and cooking meat stocks, the next and most vitally important step in the program is reached. This is the selection of the best livestock possible.

Paul C. Dunlevy, general manager of the Zoller Company, said:

"No delectable sausage product was ever developed from inferior meat animals, neither roughs nor what is commonly known as 'scallywags' among livestock raisers, will make tasty sausages, puddings or bologna."

A United States government inspector is always at the Zoller plant inspecting each steer or hog before it is slaughtered, and then again after it has been butchered.

VARIETY STORE SALES RISE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—In order to make available statistics which will show the relationship between purchasing power and price levels, the Department of Commerce today issued the first of a series of retail trade indexes.

The initial announcement was for retail stores through 5-and-10-cent to $1 variety stores. These September sales showed an increase of about 7½ per cent as compared with August, and a 5 per cent gain over September, 1932. August sales registered an unusual advance of 3.4 per cent over July.

Secretary of Commerce Roper plans to cover the entire retail field with these indexes. He considers it essential to have accurate statistics on sales to aid the NRA program.

Estimates of the variety store sales represented about three-fourths of the total business in that line. The stores surveyed had been in business continuously since 1929.

September business showed the first increase over the same month the year before since 1929. In all Septembers from 1929 retail business has increased over the preceding month.

STEEL DEMAND UNCERTAIN

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The magazine Steel today attributed a two-point advance in steelworks operations to 40 per cent of capacity last week to the speeding up of production to complete specifications on expiring contracts by October 15.

It was carefully pointed out, however, that this acceleration, prompted by requirements of the steel code, does not measure consuming demand. The review said:

"Due largely to the fact that the automobile industry is beginning the change-over in models and that users generally have just taken in large stocks, the prospects now are for a rather sharp reduction.

"Strikes, at least for the present, are no longer a factor affecting steel works operations. In the Wheeling district, the steel rate advanced 10 points to 45 per cent; New England, 20 to 95; Detroit, 9½ to 55; Pittsburgh, 2 to 40; Youngstown, 2 to 57, and Chicago, 1 to 49. At Cleveland the rate was down 8 points to 46; Eastern Pennsylvania, down 5 to 26½; Birmingham, 4 to 30, while Buffalo was unchanged at 29 per cent."

Supply of Cotton Shrinking Rapidly

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The new cotton exchange service says that the stock of cotton in all hands in the United States on September 30, including the estimated unpicked part of the current crop, was 18,266,000 bales compared with 20,333,000 on the same date last year. Distribution of cotton, by exports and domestic consumption, says the service, is "running at a high rate and hence the supply is being run down more rapidly than in recent seasons."

American Smelting Cuts Price of Lead

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The American Smelting and Refining Company has reduced the price of lead 10-points, to 4.40 cents a pound.

Col. Ayres Sees Period Of Test for NRA Program

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THIS IS THE testing time for the NRA and for our recovery efforts, in the opinion of Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company and well know economist.

During recent months groups representing all kinds of businesses have been working with government representatives to formulate codes, and with their own organizations to put them into effect. These efforts still continue, but it is pretty generally true by now that all American businesses are operating under codes. Col. Ayres points out that it still is too soon to judge what the results will be. The developments so far have been of diverse sorts.

In summarizing the results under the NRA, he declares that probably more workers are employed this month, and the aggregate of payroll disbursements is larger than in any previous time this year. But this, according to Col. Ayres, has its dangerous as well as its advantageous side.

* * *

Volume of Industrial Production Declines

THE VOLUME of industrial production is lower than it has been during any of the four previous months. As a result the unit costs of output have advanced. Both wholesale and retail prices for manufactured goods are advancing, while agricultural prices are weak. As a result workers are protesting against the advances in the cost of living, while farmers are complaining that the prices of goods they must buy are moving up more rapidly than those of the products they sell. Col. Ayres says:

"Adjustments to the new conditions are proving difficult. Many business men are finding it hard to make profits since the costs of operation have advanced, and as a consequence they are having trouble in their attempts to secure credit with which to keep going. Moreover many workers are discovering that the benefits received under the codes are less than they expected, and because of this large numbers of strikes have broken out in a great variety of industries, and in many parts of the country."

* * *

Activity Loses Half of Gains

COL. AYRES points out that as a nation we are approaching the fifth depression winter with decreased faith in the efficacy of economic panaceas, but with increased confidence in our capacity for co-operative action.

He states that from March to July business activity as reflected by industrial production was increasing with unusual rapidity, but since July it has been decreasing. Some of the more sensitive indexes of business have fallen so much in recent weeks as to have cancelled half of the entire advance from last spring.

AIR TRANSPORT INCREASES HERE

The rapid growth of air transportation in the Pittsburgh district and its significance in the commercial development of the city and its surrounding communities, is shown by figures released today by Pennsylvania Airlines, Inc., a company financed entirely by Pittsburgh capital, which operates airmail, passenger and express service between Cleveland, Akron, Pittsburgh and Washington.

Since the winter of 1930, when Pennsylvania Airlines was taken over by Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, at which time expansion of its operations was initiated, the miles flown by this company have increased from 20,000 to 90,000 miles per month, or 450 per cent. Eight mail and passenger schedules daily and two night mail schedules of Pennsylvania Airlines, now link Pittsburgh with every major city in the United States, as contrasted with only two schedules in October, 1930. During this same period of less than three years, the employees of Pennsylvania Airlines and its affiliates have increased from 50 to 120.

BUSINESS GROWS

Contrary to the prevalent downward economic trend, the growth of Pennsylvania Airlines' business is clearly demonstrated by comparative figures for the June, July, August, and September periods of the past three years.

Passengers	3,718	3,942	5,336
Pounds of mail	37,727	44,435	71,031

In September, 1933, Pennsylvania Airlines carried 1,719 passengers and 18,667 pounds of mail, an increase over September, 1932, of 632 passengers and 5,004 pounds of mail.

Affiliated with Pennsylvania Airlines is the Penn School of Aviation, the one flying school in Western Pennsylvania which has the distinction of operating under a certificate of approval issued by the federal government. Fifty-seven students, now engaged in training, have flown 758 hours during the three months period—June, July and August of this year. More than 12,500 hours of student instruction have been given by Penn School since its organization, to August 31, 1933.

REPAIRS GREATER

The Pittsburgh-Butler Airport, main overhaul and repair base of Pennsylvania Airlines and Penn School, has expanded its business proportionately with the growth of its two affiliated companies and carries a United States Department of Commerce certificate as an approved repair station.

As further illustrative of the progress of local air transportation and of the services now being offered, it is today possible for a Pittsburgh businessman with an engagement in Washington, to spend an hour at his office answering his morning mail and, leaving Pittsburgh shortly after nine o'clock, to keep an appointment in the Capitol before luncheon. Enjoying a full afternoon in Washington and taking a plane a few minutes after five o'clock, he can easily be back in ample time for a leisurely cocktail and "Dinner at Eight." Round trips within a day between Pittsburgh and Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, or New York, with several hours in these cities for the transaction of business, are becoming more and more popular with many of Pittsburgh's air travelers, who have come to prefer a late family dinner to an extended absence from home.

An average of over 100 passengers are now utilizing our County-Municipal Airport daily, and air transportation, which only a few years ago was locally but a step in advance of barnstorming, is today an important factor in the business recovery of this country.

RESTAURATEUR WRITES SHORT STORIES

To E. T. Moores goes the distinction of being the only downtown restaurant man to make a hobby of writing short stories. He is the service manager of the newly opened Woodforth restaurant, Wood street and Fourth avenue.

Moores likes writing just as much as he likes supervising meals. About 10 years ago he was a member of a colony of writers at Lake Placid in the Adirondacks. He said:

Two of his latest writings are "All For A Dame," and "Dad Had a Soft Landing."

Moores is known to hundreds of persons who eat in the downtown. He was formerly manager of La Fiesta restaurant, Wood street and also restaurants in the Law and Finance and the Keenan buildings.

Dravo-Doyle Opens New Display Room

Iron Fireman Automatic Coal Burner sales in Pittsburgh have increased to such an extent that Dravo-Doyle Company, local dealers, have openel a sales and display room at 418 Wood street, next to the Colonial Trust Company. An Iron Fireman can be seen operating on the sales floor in a warm air furnace. The latest domestic home owner's type of Iron Fireman is on display. This machine operates noiselessly and automatically. It maintains an even temperature and abundant heat at very low operating cost.

A. T. T. NET $5.42 FOR 9 MONTHS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company for nine months ended September 30, 1933, shows net income of $101,225,317, after charges and federal taxes, equal to $5.42 a share on 18,662,275 shares outstanding. This compares with net of $110,704,774, or $5.93 a share, in the first nine months of 1932.

For the third quarter, net income amounted to $35,110,808, equal to $1.88 a share, as against $34,059,282 or $1.82 a share in the second quarter and $35,413,893 or $1.90 a share in the third quarter of 1932.

Treating the system as a whole, including the Western Electric Company, earnings on American Telephone and Telegraph Company stock were about $3.85 per share for the first nine months of 1933, or at the annual rate of about $5.13 per share, against $5.96 per share for the year 1932.

By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor, The Econostat

This chart deals with the disposition of the country's capital. This is the result partly of savings and partly of deliberate manufacture by the banking system.

In general it may be said that there are two competitors for this supply of capital: One is the government and the other is business. It may be noted that Uncle Sam's gross debt reached a peak of approximately $25,000,000,000 at the end of 1919 and had been reduced by successive and steady retirements until it touched a low point of approximately $16,000,000,000 at the end of 1930.

This reduction covered a period of 11 years. Since 1930, federal deficits, added to the tremendous emergency burdens resting upon the government, have forced it once more to expand its total debt with the result that it is now rapidly approaching the peak touched in 1919.

In fact, at the present rate of growth and taking into account the additional requirements of the government for the rest of the year, it is quite certain that the wartime peak will be exceeded before the first of the year.

To some extent the capital released by government repayment of debt in the period 1920-1930 has been offset by a corresponding increase in the debt of state and local governments. Much of the normal increase in the country's capital in this period found its way into corporate financing.

The collapse in security prices in 1929 and the protracted decline during the next three years deprived private enterprise of the appeal necessary to attract private capital. Furthermore, the volume of that capital itself tended to dry up. With the return of proper business it is now realized that it will be desirable for new corporate financing to be revived.

This is one way of supplying new business with necessary credit. It is unwise as it is impossible for the government to meet all demands for capital. Washington realizes that it will be necessary to encourage new private financing if the country is to make progress of a lasting character.

The subject, therefore, is receiving careful attention to determine the best way in which private financing can again be restored in volume.

STOCK TRADING DULL, TREND LOWER

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Muddled financial markets today groped hesitantly for elusive price-trend indicators and traders generally marked time while waiting for developments.

Transactions in stocks were at a minimum and most leading issues displayed a sagging tendency. The rails and various industrials were quite heavy at times, due principally to the widening of the gap between bids and offers. Important operators, as well as the public, were reported out of the market. The spotty European picture apparently was a confusing element, although not particularly disturbing for the moment. The domestic inflationists and non-inflationists were not too sure of their ground. Grains dipped and rallied and cotton slipped. Bonds showed a drifting mood. The dollar again spurted in foreign exchange dealings, but later gave up some of its gains.

Shares off 1 to 3 or more points at one time included those of Case, Allied Chemical, Sears-Roebuck, United States Steel, American Telephone, Chrysler, American Can, Johns Manville, National Distillers, New York Central, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, American Smelting, United States Smelting, du Pont, Celanese and Baltimore and Ohio. Some resistance was shown by a few of the oils and utilities.

Traders who have been watching the price of newly mined gold, which is fixed daily by the Treasury, for a clue to the government's fiscal program, were highly interested in the announcement of today's value of $29 an ounce compared with $29.83 last Saturday. Today's rate is the lowest set by the Treasury since daily quotations were started. The previous low was $29.10 an ounce on September 11, and the high was $32.28 on September 20.

Financial quarters, studying the fluctuations in the gold price, both here and in London, find little relation of daily quotations for the metal to administrative monetary policies. Bankers point out that the Treasury's price is based largely on the world value which is fixed in London and which follows the movements of exchanges in the gold standard countries. The decline of the French franc and allied currencies, it is said, means that fewer dollars and pounds will buy an ounce of gold in those countries and, consequently, the dollar-sterling gold rates drop in proportion.

Market observers were not in agreement as to just what effect the foreign situation will have on domestic markets. In times when the United States was a debtor nation, "war talk" abroad was generally considered bullish in that the powers in conflict might be expected to greatly increase their imports from America. Now, some Wall street analysts explain, this country is the greatest creditor nation in the world and most foreign countries, already heavily in debt here, might find it difficult to negotiate additional purchases of supplies even if the American government decided to permit exports to beligerents.

DU PONT PROFIT INCREASING

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 16.—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., in a preliminary report for the quarter ended September 30 last, states that the company earned 95 cents a share on its common stock, including dividends from its General Motors investment, amounting to 22½ cents a share on du Pont common stock. This compares with total earnings of 28 cents on du Pont common, including 23 cents a share from General Motors, in the preceding quarter, and total earnings of 36 cents a share on du Pont common, including 23 cents a share on General Motors, in the third quarter of 1932.

For nine months ended September 30 last, earnings were equal to $1.98 a share on common stock, including dividends from General Motors amounting to 68½ cents a share on du Pont common. This compares with $1.37 a share on the common in the first nine months of the previous year, including dividend from General Motors of 92 cents a share on du Pont common.

The above figures include the company's equity in undivided profits or losses of controlled companies not consolidated.

WHEAT RISES AFTER FALL

CHICAGO, Oct. 16—Grain prices advanced sharply today after downturns at the start. Liverpool dispatches said European political conditions were considered bullish. Opening ⅛@2¼ off, wheat later scored decided gains. Corn started at ¼ decline to 1¼ rise, and subsequently showed a general upturn.

A new bottom price record since last June was touched by wheat in early trading, but quick rallies of nearly four cents followed. Corn and oats swayed chiefly in line with wheat action.

THREAT OF WAR DISTURBING TO FINANCE

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—On Saturday, the stock market showed a very mixed performance. A majority of stocks declined, but the "averages" based on the old line "leaders" made small gains.

With the notable exception of U. S. Steel, most leading industrials and utilities rallied, while rails, metals and a majority of minor issues lost a little ground. The weakness in steel reflects the fact that the outlook in the industry is not bright, the recent spurt of activity being due to shipments on old orders called for to beat the advance in prices which comes today.

The chief news was the further break in copper and grain prices, and the withdrawal of Germany from the League of Nations and the arms conference.

Copper and wheat prices have simply yielded to the law of supply and demand, there being oversupplies of both. Both markets have been artificially supported, and wheat is so far out of line with the world market that exports of the surplus are impossible on an economic basis.

WAR THREAT DEPRESSING

While the threat of war occasioned by Germany's action would ordinarily stimulate certain "war baby" stocks (and may yet do so), present disturbed economic conditions throughout the world seem to make the thing unusually unattractive and discouraging.

The only immediate effect seen was in the foreign exchanges. The gold currencies, centering around France, and German bonds declined, while dollars were in demand. Fear of war on the continent would doubtless cause a transfer of funds to this country.

It should be remembered, however, that seasonal conditions and new government bond refunding are now tending to relieve pressure on the dollars.

On the whole, the market's action Saturday seemed rather favorable, since it rallied to close well up in the day's range, and the hourly volume was greater.

REACTIONARY WEEK

The week as a whole, however, was reactionary, the averages losing about two points. A majority of the stocks traded in declined on four of the five days, and the activity was mostly on the downside.

The chief factors in the decline were:

2—Over-bulled positions in some stocks, notably in alcohols, resulted in weakness in Commercial Solvents and National Distillers.

3—Slow business conditions were reflected in such stocks as U. S. Steel, several store stocks, and such rails as Atchison. Weakness in important commodity markets contributed, notably in copper.

VOLUME DROPS

But there was no general bad break and the volume of trading declined from day to day. The reactions had the appearance of a slow, stubborn liquidation by indiscriminate buyers who had sought an inflationary ride.

The low touched on Saturday was but little above the July and October bottoms, and prices threatened for a time to break through the bottom of the big "descending triangle" which has been forming since July. The evident resistance at this level is encouraging from a bullish point of view.

Whether the market decline will be stopped and a little rally be staged here, is impossible to predict, in view of the abnormal and disturbed conditions now prevalent, but the technical position has probably been gradually strengthened, and with wheat and cotton prices so much lower Washington may produce another rabbit from the hat.

BAD BREAK UNLIKELY

It seems clear that as long as the main emphasis is on government control of business under NRA, the stock market will make little progress on the up side. But as long as there remains any probability of further inflation, the market is not likely to break badly.

Dollar hedgers and confident speculators for an inflationary rise, who have been holding "asked" quotations at so wide a spread above the market, will probably not unload as long as the administration stays committed (1) to "raising prices to the 1926 level," and (2) to "socializing debts."

I think no new commitments should be risked at present. Particularly beware the new mining issues which are being pedaled around just now.

COAL OUTPUT OFF SHARPLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Bituminous coal production took a drop in the week ended October 7, with officials of the Bureau of Mines attributing it to the Pennsylvania strike and large stocks accumulated before the industry's code went into effect.

The week's output was 5,630,000 tons, a decrease of 1,246,000 tons from the previous week. In the corresponding week last year 7,255,000 tons were produced. Compared with the same week in 1929, the decrease was more than 5,000,000 tons.

Anthracite output dropped to 1,126,000 tons, compared with 1,202,000 the previous week and 1,188,000 for the corresponding week last year.

For the week ended September 20, Pennsylvania bituminious production was 650,000 tons. Last year, during the same week, it totaled 1,562,000 tons.

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER VI.

Nollie—in the tiny theatrical apartment that was in a "walk up" just off Broadway—lent a doubtful ear to the woman's philosophy.

"A girl with your good looks . . . kidding men along means easy money . . ."

The tow-headed blonde in the soiled kimono winked at Nollie meaningly as they sat by the open window before a card table on which a modest supper from the delicatessen was spread out.

"Pretty green, aren't you, huh?" Nollie's rescuer and adviser was, with great gusto, tackling a turkey leg.

"I expect I am." Nollie felt all at sea . . . a query in her mind . . . and disconcerted . . .

"You'll soon get over that. I used to be a fool, like you, before I knew the ropes. But none of the men can put anything across ME now, I'm here to tell the world!" And the blonde lady sagely nodded her head.

"I guess I know the very man for you. Does not mind how he chucks away the dough! He makes it fast, you see. He's in a grand racket."

It seemed that this odd lady (odd to Nollie, that's to say) had a large assortment of men friends, and wanted Nollie to meet them to their mutual profit.

"Say, I've taken a shine to you, kid, and I'm partickler about my girl friends—have to be y'know—from Park avenue to Broadway, they're all alike today. You can't trust any of 'em further than you can see 'em! They're all double-crossers!"

She poured herself a stein of beer—"the real stuff," she said, that she had got from Joe, who was a "kind of a heart" of hers, and a smart bootlegger.

INVITED TO STAY

"Say, don't you ever get liquored up at all? You won't get far, not even with your good looks, not if you aren't sporty."

Nollie indicated that she had no desire for sportiveness. All that she wanted was—a job—and quickly.

"Oh, there's time enough for that. You can stay right here with me," suggested Yellow Hair for the second time that evening, magnanimously.

"I wouldn't be a burden on you after your kindness and all," rejoined Nollie.

"Burden nothing! You'd be quite the opposite, I assure you. You and me 'ud be a profitable team in lots of ways. We'd hit it along fine."

"I guess that's Snappy, a boy friend of mine. He's the best looking thing—" She went off.

Then came a sound of kissing in the little hall and back she came with "Snappy," who was carrying a bottle.

"Say, I don't even know your name. Isn't that a scream?" she giggled to Nollie.

Nollie enlightened her, and the introduction was made.

NOLLIE UNCERTAIN

Snappy addressed the woman as "Daffy." She brought in three glasses and a bowl of cracked ice, and the bottle was opened.

"Gee, kid, you must drink some. More for me, Snappy—" Daffy tilted up her glass, said, over the brim explanatory-wise: "I take mine straight."

"I won't take anything at all, thanks. And—really I must be getting along now—you've been awfully good to me, but I must go—" Nollie rose. Her hostess vehemently protested.

"Say, have a heart. Just when I meet a girl I like, and feel I could pal with, she wants to run out on me!"

Snappy's chair was near the door and as Nollie tried to get by, he made a playful pass at her.

She had a queer feeling of being trapped, somehow.

But what was there to harm her here? It was silly to be frightened . . .

Presently another man arrived. With a bottle, too. He was rather bald, and middle-aged, but his clothes were in good taste. He was much more refined-looking than Snappy.

"What kind of a house is this?" was the query running in Nollie's mind. She sat down again, uncertain what to do, racking her brain for an excuse to get away quickly.

"Want to powder your nose? I've a box in a new French rachel that's swell. It's on the dresser in the other room," suggested the lady of the apartment affably.

Here was a chance to go. But to her chagrin, Man Number Two followed her, thrust aside the hanging bead curtains and stood in the bedroom doorway.

He had a leering, appraising expression in his eyes that both angered and shocked Nollie.

The very skin on her body seemed to creep. A hot flush flew to her forehead.

"Is there anything you want?" She would meet this situation with dignity.

"Yes. Plenty. Come on, Pretty Face. Give me a kiss—" He suddenly strode up to her as she stood by the dresser and put his arms about her.

"Let go at once. You go. Leave me alone." He had bent her head back forcibly, but she struggled and twisted.

STRIKES MAN

"You go at once. I'll scream . . . " she cried breathlessly.

"Scream here? In this gay joint? What's the big idea? So—you pretty little golddigger, you!—you'd blackmail me, would you?"

"Let me go, I say—"

With a dexterous twist born of her fear and aversion of this beast, Nollie freed her right hand, clenched it and struck out wildly. The blow hit that open, leering mouth with considerable force for so slight a girl, so that a sharp cut from his two front teeth came on the knuckles.

"What's this? What's this? Daffy appeared on the scene. "What's the matter with your mouth, Ted White? It's bleeding . . ."

"Ask your designing lady friend! I bet you put her up to this! But it won't work with me! I've a damn good mind to expose your racket—"

Nollie felt sick and faint. She saw Daffy take him by the arm and down the tiny passage to the bathroom where his loosened teeth could be attended to. Daffy's voice was high in argument . . .

Nollie grabbed her hat and bag and made a swift rush for the front door and down the stairs on feet to which fear lent wings . . .

Synopsis

Nollie Day, young and pretty, lives in a small town with her aunt and uncle. She works in her uncle's paint shop for a nominal salary, most of which her aunt takes for board. Her 18-year-old cousin, Lil, lazy, irresponsible girl, who borrows from Nollie rather than work, shares her room. Nollie longs for a career in New York. The opportunity arrives when she wins a $50 prize. Jake Tippett, calling to keep an appointment with Lil, mistakes her for Nollie because she is wearing Nollie's clothes. He throws his arms around her and says, "At last, I've got you alone, Nollie darling." Lil is furious. Next day, Nollie discovers $10 of her prize money missing. Lil denies the theft. Nollie goes to New York. Exhausted, trying to find a position, Nollie faints on the sidewalk. She regains consciousness in a suspicious looking house. The hostess tells Nollie a pretty face means easy money.

FAREWELL OF ALEXANDER TO HIS SOLDIERS

Subduing Persia, less successful in India, Alexander the Great returned to Babylon planning Western conquests. Exhausted from wounds and warfare at the age of 33, he died in 323 B. C. He not only broke down walls of cities but also barriers of civilizations. His empire fell apart soon after his death. (World History.)

ENGINE IGNITION BY HIGH TENSION MAGNETO

The battery ignition uses as primary the low-tension current of a battery transforming it by induction coil into high-tension (secondary) current, needed to produce the spark (see Pict. Ed., Oct. 11 and 13). Another ignition is the high-tension magneto system, which needs no battery. It generates the necessary low-tension primary current itself.

By revolving the armature in the magnetic field the primary winding cuts the lines of force, thus inducing low-tension current in it.

Bottom, right: The magneto ignition circuit. The primary circuit is interrupted by the breaker, thus high-tension current is induced in the secondary windings connected in succession with the spark plugs by the revolving contact of the distributor. The condenser plays the same role as explained with the battery ignition. (Croft: Prac. Electricity; Elliot and Consoliver: The Gasoline Automobile)

HYDROGEN BLOWPIPES

Above: The hydrogen-oxygen blowpipe, a welding tool, consists of two concentric metal tubes for highly compressed oxygen in the inner and hydrogen in the outer. Hydrogen unites quickly with oxygen in a hot flame (about 5100° F.). Impinging it on quicklime produces an intensive white light, formerly used as "limelight." Left: The atomic hydrogen blowpipe welds metals, alloys without flux because of its very hot, non-oxydizing flame (about 6200° F.). It has two tungsten electrodes, with an electric arc drawn between. Molecular hydrogen is blown across, split into atoms ($H_2 = 2H$) that recombine and liberate much heat, thus increasing the temperature of the flame. (Partington: Inorganic Chemistry)

No Bang to the Beer

Complete repeal is closer than peanuts in a bag.

There will be no shortage in whisky and gin if the millionaires put their private stocks back on the market.

We do not claim that our influential citizens have ever violated the letter of the law. Not the letter.

But we know they dashed off a postcard once in a while.

Shall we put the coal back with the potatoes in the bin? Or shall we hold everything in readiness for another amendment?

It is our belief that we are going to become a nation of hard drinkers and macadamized hiccuppers. That's because the brewers forgot to put the bang in the beer. They stayed within the 3.2 line, and that percentage will never blow the lid off the clam chowder.

You cannot blame the brewers. After 13 years of marking time, baby took its first step. The result was that it toddled instead of staggering.

There wasn't enough malt and hops in the community chest. They inform us that it requires 88 days to brew the certified, Grade A prescription that will make you sing like the birds and put dents in your derby hat.

Well, 88 days is a long time between elbows on the bar. You cannot make the public beer conscious if they remain conscious. A customer is satisfied to enter the room by the door or the window but he wants to leave through the ceiling.

The legitimate brewers were handcuffed and hogtied by the 3.2 limit. If highpowered whisky and concentrated gin is put on the market then they should give the beer barons a free hand.

Give the brewers a free hand. And we will take care of the feet.

Get that bang into the beer and all will be well. But it must have a kick. We want to drink it, and not pour it on our umbrellas.

A Free Press In Danger

(Reprinted from the Kansas City Star)

The announcement by an assistant secretary in the Department of Labor that "officers of the Department have been advised that they have no right to tell any editor what he may or may not print, and that nothing in the NRA nor any other federal statute gives them such a right" must be profoundly disturbing to every American citizen who has the slightest comprehension of the basis upon which his government rests.

The shocking aspect of this announcement is not that the advice tendered to the officers of the Department of Labor is unsound. On the contrary, it is perfectly correct. What is so disturbing is that any representatives of the United States government should have to be given advice upon such an elementary constitutional question.

This government was founded on the principle of individual liberty. For the permanent and inalienable protection of that liberty the necessary majority of states ratified the first 10 amendments to the constitution, popularly known as the "Bill of Rights," of which the first article reads:

"Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

The complete freedom of the press, subject only to the commonly accepted restrictions as to slander, libel and obscenity and of treason in war time, has gone virtually unchallenged from that day until this.

Why, then, should it be necessary for a government department now to warn its officials that they have no right under the NRA or any other federal statute to dictate to a newspaper editor what he may or may not say in his paper?

The immediate reason for the assistant secretary's announcement is simple. A mediator for the department's conciliation commission had threatened the editor of an Alabama paper with federal prosecution if he continued to comment upon labor unions in a way which the mediator did not like. When the editor refused to be intimidated and published an account of the affair, the Department of Labor promptly disavowed its agent's action and notified all of its officials that they were not vested with any control over the press.

If the Alabama episode merely showed the hand of a misguided official, it would call for only passing reference. But every informed person who has followed recent developements in the United States in the light of what has been happening in Germany and elsewhere, knows that much more is involved in the present situation with respect to the historic freedom of the press than is evident in any isolated instance of interference.

The fact is that the national recovery program, with its emphasis upon patriotic co-operation to improve the country's economic condition, has produced the attendant danger that any criticism of the program, no matter how constructive or restrained, may be considered as a species of treason. And the government's proposal to license all newspapers constitutes potentially the most serious attack upon the freedom of the press that has ever been made in the United States in time of peace.

It is true that theoretically the licensing proposal is designed merely to enforce certain industrial code requirements and has nothing to do with the editorial freedom of the newspapers.

Newspapers, of course, have two distinct sides. They are business institutions and, as such, are amenable to any reasonable regulations, like those applied to other industries. But they are also agencies for reporting facts and commenting upon those facts, and, as such, they occupy a special position of public trust and public necessity which must be protected from influence and contamination at any behest.

That protection is gone the moment the government is given authority to suppress a newspaper on any pretext whatever. There are other methods of bringing pressure to bear upon a newspaper to make it live up to its industrial obligations than to interfere with its publication. It is no reflection upon the Roosevelt administration to point out that a group of unscrupulous officials could use the power to withdraw a newspaper's license for technical violations of the newspaper code, actually to stop criticism, and, what is even more important, that they could constantly employ the threat of such action to forestall criticism.

In the face of such an episode as the effort to muzzle an Alabama paper, who can say that there is no practical danger in the licensing proposal? It is full of danger not only to a free press, but to a free people. The sooner the administration drops so perilous a project, the better for all concerned.

The Truck Conference

In These Days of Interstate Transportation Uniform Regulations Are Desirable.

Just about a year ago a new law went into effect requiring buses and motor trucks from other states that ran through Pennsylvania on regular schedules to have Pennsylvania licenses.

Enforcement of the law resulted in prompt retaliation by neighboring states. Bus and truck drivers were arrested, delivery of perishable goods prevented, and a great deal of other trouble caused.

But good appears to be coming out of it, for as a result, at the invitation of the Pennsylvania Legislature, officials of 17 northeastern states and the District of Columbia are to meet in Harrisburg the latter part of this week to consider uniform regulations.

A truck 14 feet and 6 inches high is permitted in Pennsylvania, but that is two feet higher than the law permits in 11 of the states participating in the conference.

We have set 96 inches as the maximum width for a truck, but in New York and the District of Columbia trucks 106 inches wide are permitted.

Seventy feet is the maximum over-all length for a combination of vehicles in Pennsylvania, but some states have 40 feet as the maximum, still others have placed it at 85 feet, and Maryland has no limit.

Just as the railroads in the early days soon found it advisable to agree on a standard gauge for their tracks, so the states must reach an agreement on motor truck regulations if confusion and inconvenience are to be avoided.

During the year preceding his amazing success in "The Jest" he put himself in the hands of a coach who ironed out difficulties by eight hours a day of rigid discipline. He'd awaken Barrymore out of a sound sleep to see if he would still pronounce Cuba "Cuber."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

The High Cost of Excusing

You get so mad! Looking back over your life you get so mad and discouraged. Just one darned mess after another. What's the use? You never have the breaks.

But maybe there's a reason why you never have the breaks. Maybe there's a reason why your life is just one mess after another. Stop a minute. Wipe your tears, pull up your jaw—and use the good old bean.

There was that mistake you made this morning. Not much of a mistake; you've almost forgotten it. Don't forget it. Sit down and think about it. That mistake was important. It holds the secret of all your misfortunes. You don't believe that? Listen—

You made that mistake. Just a silly little mistake. But what did you do about it? You did what you have always done whenever you made a mistake, big or little—YOU LOOKED AROUND FOR AN EXCUSE. Quick as a flash, without a moment's hesitation, you looked around for an excuse.

And that, of course, was natural. It was the old animal instinct of self-preservation asserting itself. Mistakes mean trouble. Trouble means danger, discomfort, humiliation, possibly punishment. An animal's first impulse is to hide from danger. You, too, are an animal. Your first impulse, also, is to duck.

So you ducked. As soon as you made that mistake, you grabbed the nearest excuse, and ducked. That was easy. One can always find a thousand handy alibis. Blame someone else. Say you were sick. Say you didn't know.

You made an excuse. Probably it was a good excuse. It satisfied others. It prevented trouble—shushed the nagging. And you felt fine! You stopped feeling shaky inside, prickly outside. Your courage was returned; your wounded vanity was soothed. Everything was jake again. Or was it?

No, it wasn't. For you really haven't wiped out that mistake at all—and you know you haven't. You'll go on making mistakes just like that, again and again. Life will continue to be "one darned mess after another" until—

UNTIL YOU STOP DUCKING—STOP MAKING EXCUSES, AND FORCE YOURSELF TO FACE THE REAL REASON FOR ALL THESE MESSES.

But what is the real reason?

The real reason is YOURSELF.

The real reason is SOMETHING IN YOUR OWN NATURE.

Many other things may come into the picture. Other people may come in. Sickness may come in. Disorder may come in.

BUT BEHIND THE OTHER PEOPLE, BEHIND THE SICKNESS AND DISORDER, LIES SOME WEAKNESS IN YOUR OWN NATURE THAT IS TRICKING AND TRAPPING YOU AGAIN AND AGAIN.

Some weakness—laziness, cowardice, conceit, greediness, silliness; which is it? I don't know. Nobody can know except yourself. And you'll never know until you stop running away and turn and face yourself.

Even then you must be ruthlessly honest, ruthlessly brave, if you wish to help yourself. You mustn't allow yourself to make even one smallest excuse for yourself, to lay even a particle of the blame on the other fellow. Making excuses, passing the blame, these things will give you temporary comfort. But—if you do it, you're lost. Life will go on being "one flop after another." You will go on whining, whimpering, crawling.

Long ago a Wise Man sat talking to his friends. Plain on their faces he read the record of their discouragement and discontent. Once more they asked him for the secret of success. Smiling a little sadly, for he knew they would never follow it, he said:

"KNOW THE TRUTH, AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE."

Know the truth about yourself. Then the weakness in yourself, which is responsible for all your misery, will no longer spoil your life.

You can be free. You can be strong. You can be happy. You need only to face yourself.

BUT HAVE YOU WHAT IT TAKES?

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Submerged Husbands

My heart goes out to that young playwright who, according to a recent report, refuses to let his famous wife use his name, and who urges all husbands of prominent women to follow his example.

Every now and then some member of the Timid Sex rises to revolt against the "Tyranny of Woman" and to shout a feeble protest for equal rights for men. But alas, the rest of his sex are either too apathetic or too shy to stand back of him. So nothing ever comes of it.

* * *

After all, why should an upstanding he-man with a career or a profession of his own permit himself to be submerged under a woman's personality? And why should a woman who has made a success of her own, in the arts or in business, WANT to use her husband's name?

* * *

Oh, yes, I know there's a thrill, just at first, in being called "MRS. John Doe"—a sort of "I-belong-to-him" feeling—a delicious possessiveness. But you get over that. And then you find yourself trying to juggle two names, and wondering how to sign a hotel register, or which name to have your mail sent in, or how you were introduced at the last party. It's terribly confusing?

* * *

But it's far more confusing to the man. Just think what a woman can DO, these days, to annoy or embarrass the man whose name she carries around with her! * * *

She can write things and express sentiments with which he absolutely disagrees and sign them "Mrs. John Doe." Or, as has happened in the case of several famous actresses, she can go on the stage and blazon his name in electric lights over a theater, even though he may be a Supreme Court justice or a parson who believes in original sin and infant damnation.

Worse still, if she doesn't enjoy life with him, she can go out on her own and take up racketeering, or run a smart speakeasy, or be a hostess in a dance hall under the name of "Mrs. John Doe"—and he can't do a thing about it. When it comes to names, what's his is HERS—and what's hers is her OWN. * * *

Women are doing too many startling and unusual things, these days, for ANY man to want to feel responsible for their exploits.

Human Side of the News

Mary Roberts Rinehart Plans to Write for Her Own Pleasure—F. Scott Fitzgerald Fears for Flappers

By Edwin C. Hill

ONE of the most charming ladies who ever pecked at a typewriter with her two forefingers—Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart—announces that she is about to desert admiring readers who have followed her heroes and heroines through countless thousands of pages in the past quarter of a century. Mrs. Rinehart thinks she is entitled to take two years off to write for her own enjoyment and soul satisfaction, rather than for the pleasure of at least one hundred thousand readers who may be counted on to snap up any novel or magazine piece she turns out.

For the past 25 years she has produced at least one novel every year, and at least half a dozen short stories and articles for a ready and eager market. Chance and necessity had about equal parts in the launching of the literary career of this lovely and brilliant lady.

A native of Pittsburgh and a nurse by profession, she met and married Dr. Stanley Rinehart. While in bed with diphtheria she turned out a piece of verse which brought her a check for $22 from a publisher. From that encouragement she went on to fame and fortune.

Then, too, the fact that the Rinehart savings were sunk in the whirlpool of Wall street made it more than ever necessary to prove that the pen is mightier than the ticker tape.

The more one studies Mary Roberts Rinehart's career, the more one is convinced that a genius for story-writing, for fiction, is a congenital gift, born in the fortunate and very hardly to be acquired. She thinks that fashions in fiction are changing. "People will read leisurely writing again," says Mrs. Rinehart. "The staccato style is going out."

Scott Fitzgerald Is Worried

MODERN ladies of various ages are causing immense concern to the philosophers and novelists. There is F. Scott Fitzgerald, for example, who shakes his head very dubiously over the future of the young flapper of today, or should one say, "young doll?" He fears she is heading straight for hellfire and no end of damnation.

Young Mr. Fitzgerald left Princeton to shoulder a gun in the World War and to become one of the most popular novelists of the post-war decade. It was this young man from Minnesota who held the mirror up to the flapper as that other interesting Gopher, Sinclair Lewis, the gentleman who certainly must appeal to the sense of humor of the Creator of all things, held it up to Babbit and Main Street.

He shakes his head, this 37-year-old patriarch Scott Fitzgerald, and tells us that the kids with ex-flappers for mothers are up against it now and hereafter. Mothers, he remarks, are so intent upon their own pleasures or dissipations that they apparently care very little what the daughters do.

Seems to me that Brother Fitzgerald exaggerates a bit. The Flapper Age only began about 1920. That would make the average age of the flapper's daughter around 12 or 13. Probably eight or nine would be about the average. These little girls will be brought up in an age which will have rid itself of the hip flask, the challenge to youth which prohibition actually was, and the whole sneaking, furtive atmosphere of a corrupt and hypocritical social era.

Nor will they have known the splash and splurge of the Big Money Era through which their flapper mothers danced and sang. My guess is that a lot of the daughters will turn out as well, if not better than their mothers, and Author Fitzgerald could safely wipe away his tears.

Personality of Mrs. Roosevelt

REMARKABLY interesting comment on the human side of the news comes to me from Washington about Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Washington has reached the conclusion after six months and three weeks that the President's lady is real, and that her unusual and often surprising traits are as sincere and natural as any other expression of personality she may be given to.

There was a good deal of criticism of Mrs. Roosevelt when she first went to Washington. Some said they thought she talked too much. Others doubted that she really liked the knitting that always seemed to be keeping her fingers busy, and suggested that it was probably a publicity stunt. Others complained that she dashed about too much; that a President's wife ought to stay put.

But now Washington takes it all back very graciously and confesses that Mrs. Roosevelt is one of the most sincere, downright, intellectually honest women who ever ruled the White House. She is immensely popular with the newspaper correspondents, and especially with the women correspondents, whom she sees once a week and with whom she is extraordinarily frank.

But the greatest impression she has yet made had to do with her visit to the soft coal fields of West Virginia. Alone and incognita, refusing to be guided by mine officials, Mrs. Roosevelt went into the homes of the miners and talked to their women and children. She saw with her own eyes the wretchedness of their existence and their bitter struggle to remain good Americans while a benevolent government was letting them starve to death.

All this she saw and heard and then she went back to Washington and told the President about it. And the story is that his anger flashed like lightning. And it wasn't long before he ordered the coal operators to sign the NRA code or take the consequences.

Budget Director Usurping President's Functions

By James T. Williams, Jr.

UNLESS President Roosevelt is able to stop the usurpations of power in the field of policy by the Director of the Budget, the petty dictatorship set up by this well-intentioned but ill-advised and inexperiencerd holder of this office will seriously jeopardize the splendid leadership of President Roosevelt when Congress reconvenes.

Unfortunately for the Roosevelt Administration the present Director of the Budget was not a first choice. Had President Roosevelt been able to obtain the services of Swager Shirley, of Kentucky, as Director of the Budget, not only the President but the nation would have been the gainer.

They would have been the gainer for the following reasons:

Mr. Shirley is an eminent lawyer. He was one of the ablest chairmen that the House Committee on Appropriations has ever had.

His gifts of character, his intellectual endowment, his passionate faith in the fitness of the American people to govern themselves, and his devotion to the principles on which the government of the Constitution was established, qualified him for distinguished service not only as Director of the Budget, but also as Governor-General of the Philippines or Secretary of War.

Those Senators and Representatives in Congress who know Mr. Shirley are confident that as Director of the Budget he would never have made the mistake of imagining himself to be the possessor of even more extensive powers than those enjoyed by a British Chancellor of the Exchequer. He would have been content to administer the Directorship of the Budget as that office was created by an American Congress.

* * *

A Misconception Of His Duties

AN example of the kind of blunder which Mr. Shirley would never have made as Director of the Budget is to be found in the absurd situation that exists in the office of Director of the Budget today.

At a time when this office should be chiefly concerned with preparing for the President accurate information obtained from the Cabinet, upon which his budget recommendations to Congress can be based, the Budget Director, with the assistance of his clerks, is trying to make up his mind what he would do if he were Secretary of War, chief of staff, and the entire general staff with regard to Army posts.

In the belief that the recommendations of the War Department that no more building be done at Army posts which are no longer active would be approved by the President, public sentiment indorsed this policy. Of course the public expected that the needs of the national defense as appraised by military authorities competent to have an intelligent opinion would not only be consulted but followed.

It did not dawn upon the public that a Director of the Budget would have the temerity, not to say the vaulting ambition, to undertake single-handed the redistribution of what is left of our Regular Army with the same assurance that he would add up a column of figures.

* * *

Congress Will Put An End to It

EVEN a British Chancellor of the Exchequer has not yet appeared at London who would assume the role of redistributing the British fleet. And should one appear, his appearance would be very brief. British public sentiment would see to that. And the British Parliament would also have something to say about that.

As a matter of fact, Congress will make short shrift of the Director of the Budget's pretensions to supreme authority in regard to where what is left of our Regular Army should be stationed either in continental United States or in our overseas possessions. He has no more authority under the law, no more qualification, to do this than he would have to say what kind of propellers our pursuit planes should have, or what kind of glass should be used by the Bureau of Standards in some of its more technical tests.

If the Roosevelt administration is to maintain its record of keeping several steps ahead of Congress, it will make quickly evident the fact that the redistribution of the Army is no part of the business of the holder of the office for which Swager Shirley, of Kentucky, was the President's first and most excellent choice.

Isn't It So?

The more we think of some people the less we think of them.
